GERMANS LEAVE LODZ RETIRING TO KALISZ NEAR GERMAN BORDER

ESTABLISH NEW FORTIFICATIONS PRACTICALLY ON THE BOUNDARY OF RUSSIAN POLAND.

FIGHT IN MOUNTAINS

Advantage With Neither Side in Carpathian Campaign According to the Day's Official Statements.

Evacuation by the Germans of Lodz, to Warsaw the most important of Russian Poland, is reported unofficially today from French sources. Recent official statements show that the Russians opened an attack along the Warsaw front several days ago, but the heaviest fighting apparently was being carried on some distance north of Lodz, which lies southwest of Warsaw, about half way between that city and the German border. Today's report says that the Germans are removing their supplies to Kalisz, near the border, and that they are resuming construction of a line of fortifications. Lodz was captured by the Germans, December 6th, during their drive at Warsaw, which was halted 30 miles west of that city.

Reports of the campaign in the Carpathians are conflicting, although it is agreed that heavy fighting is in progress.

Petrograd's claims of victories are not admitted in Berlin, where it is stated that the Austro-German forces are making progress steadily. The correspondent of a Berlin newspaper asserts that the spirit of the Russians appears to be broken; that they have lost 10,000 men this month, and are now content to remain on the defensive.

One of the most stubborn fights on the French battlefield is said to have been won by the allies. For six weeks the hill of Notre Dame De Lorette in northwest France has been in dispute. In winning possession of this hill the allies have gained an important advantage since the position dominates the surrounding regions.

Today's official war report showed no significant changes. In France minor battles are in progress in the Argonne where the Germans claim a measure of success, and in the Vosges. The Berlin statement says that the Russian army in northern Poland was repulsed, and that the Germans have advanced along the Vistula. A report from French sources that Lodz, in Russian Poland, had been evacuated by the Germans, has not been confirmed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Feb. 11.—The reports of the evacuation of Lodz by the Germans have been confirmed according to a Petrograd dispatch to the Havas agency, which states that stores, officers, commisariate and transports are being removed hastily to Kalisz.

Lodz, the second city of Poland, was captured by the Germans on December 6, when Field Marshal Von Hindenburg began his dash for Warsaw, 25 miles to the northeast. The Russians were driven out of the city only after a desperate resistance, according to German reports, although Petrograd contended it was evacuated for strategic reasons.

City's Population Warned.

London, Feb. 11.—The News Cologne correspondent telegraphs he has learned that the population of Insterburg, East Prussia, has been advised by the military authorities to leave the town.

Sixty Mile Front.

Geneva, via Paris, Feb. 11.—The battle which began in the Carpathians on Feb. 7, is still raging furiously along a front of 60 miles from Mount Polonina Runa to Mount Mako, according to the latest information received here. In the Mezolaborcz region General Donkl is said to have been obliged to send reinforcements to extricate a Hungarian corps which was almost cut off.

The Russians are reported to have gained several miles in the valley of Lyutra, which borders the northern slopes of Polonina Runa and also advanced a half mile in the valley of Laborcz, where the railroad passes. In a single charge by the Russians upon the Austro-Hungarian trenches 1,800 men are said to have been killed and wounded in three hours of bayonet fighting.

Russians Lose 10,000.

Berlin, via London, Feb. 11.—The correspondent in the Carpathians, of the Berlin Tagblatt, telegraphs his paper that the offensive spirit of the Russian forces in this arena of the war appears to have been broken. They are contenting themselves with defense by artillery against the German attacks. They have lost in round numbers 10,000 men in dead, wounded and prisoners since the end of January.

The Austrians and the Germans are gaining ground steadily, according to this correspondent. A serious battle is going on before Dukla pass. Russian captives complain of insufficient food and no pay for three months. Many of them were sent to the front after only two weeks' drill.

LARGE NUMBER OF WOUNDED RECOVER

Premier Asquith of England Says 60 Per Cent fo Wounded Recover and Are Fit for Service Again.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Feb. 11.—In connection with his statement to the effect that the British casualties in the fighting zone aggregated 104,000 officers and men, Premier Asquith explained in parliament this afternoon that approximately 60 per cent of the wounded already had recovered and were fit for service.

GERMAN UTTERANCES DO NOT CONTRIBUTE TO CAUSE OF PEACE

Statements by British Secretary, Sir Edward Gray, to House of Commons is Greeted by Cheers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Feb. 11.—"The recent public utterances in Germany give reason to suppose that the purpose in view will be promoted by adopting the course suggested," was the answer of Sir Edward Gray, the British foreign secretary, to a question in the house of commons this afternoon asking whether with a view to ending the terrible loss of life in the war Great Britain was prepared to declare publicly the basis whereon the allies were willing to discuss terms of peace. The members of the house greeted Sir Edward Gray's answer with cheers.

ADD NAME EMDEN TO NAMES OF THE CREW

Suggestion Is Adopted at Meeting Meeting of Communes Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Feb. 11.—At a meeting of the representatives of the various Communes near Berlin today, was adopted a suggestion that the ministry of the interior allow all the members of the crew of the German cruiser, Emden, to add the word Emden to their names, and thus perpetuate through a hyphonated cognomen the memory of this cruiser's deeds.

The Emden, after destroying a great amount of British shipping, was finally overtaken and destroyed last December by an Australian cruiser in the Indian ocean.

St. Omar, France, via Paris, Feb. 11.—The capture of the hill of Notre Dame de Lorette by the French has been announced at headquarters here. The hill, which dominates the entire region, has been fiercely disputed for weeks.

BULGARIA NEUTRAL SAYS ITS PREMIER

Country's Financial and Military Status Is Given as Reasons for Maintaining Stand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 11.—"Bulgaria has decided to maintain a strict and loyal neutrality," said Premier Radoslavoff, at a meeting today with his parliamentary adherents at which the German loan to Bulgaria was discussed.

The premier declared that the military and financial preparations of the country were adequate for any eventuality, but that the government was confident that the friendly feelings of the powers toward Bulgaria would result to its advantage.

"THE WINGED INFANTRY" DOES GOOD WORK IN WAR; BICYCLE USED BY FRENCH.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Feb. 11. — "The winged infantry" or French cycling corps, has rendered such good service that the contingent is being increased considerably.

Though cycling as a sport continued its hold on France longer than on any other country it was, like the automobile, neglected by the army until August 1913, when the Minister of War authorized its use in conjunction with the cavalry, with the object of increasing the offensive capacity of the latter. War has proven that it has a wider scope of usefulness, being able to replace the cavalry entirely where the ground is favorable, with the added efficiency of the infantry.

Cyclists in the army receive the same training as the infantry, with a special course of instruction in the use of the bicycle in the field. They are trained in the exercise of folling thier machines until they are capable of making a halt, shouldering their outfit and transforming themselves into infantry ready to charge in one minute.

One of the oldest cyclists in the service is, no doubt, the veteran Dhers who was one of the champions of France 30 years ago. His two sons, Edouard and Eugene, who were also champions in their turn, are cyclist messengers. Honore Fossier, another veteran, and his son Henri, a well known long distance rider, are also carrying despatches.

SAYS ANOTHER LOAN IS NEEDED FOR WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Feb. 11.—German financiers have been summoned to a conference, in Berlin, with the finance minister who considers that a new loan of $1,250,000 is required for the continuance of the war, says a dispatch from Amsterdam to the exchange Telegraph company. It is hoped that large portion of this loan, the message adds, will be subscribed by the Krupps and other leading German firms in exchange for new army contracts.

WARN TWO NATIONS IN REGARD TO USE OF AMERICAN FLAG

United States Sends Emphatic Notes to Both Germany and Great Britaint on War Zone Trade.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 11.—The United States has warned Great Britain and Germany respectively that the general use of the American flag by British vessels would be viewed with grave concern here and that the destruction by Germany of any American vessel in the newly prescribed war zone would lead to serious complications.

Notes Are Emphatic.

It became known today that the text of the two notes sent last night to Great Britain and Germany, expressed much more emphatically than has been generally known, the displeasure of the United States at the use of neutral flags by British merchantment and its solicitude over the implication that neutral vessels were liable to destruction by German submarines in the water around Great Britain and Ireland.

Administration officials today confidently awaited assurances from both Great Britain and Germany as to the safety of American vessels as a result of notes dispatched yesterday concerning the situation that has arisen since Germany's declaration of a sea war zone around the British Isles.

The notes both to Great Britain and Germany are brief and couched in friendly language.

Pointed Statement.

In the document which has been submitted to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin for presentation to the German foreign office there is a friendly but pointed statement that American vessels should have free and unrestricted passage through the high seas and unblockaded waters, and that destruction of an American vessel might lead to a change in the hitherto friendly relations which have existed between the United States and Germany.

While in the note to Great Britain the representations made are not based on the Lusitania incident, but on the statement of the British foreign office justifying the use of neutral flags by its vessels, the United States has stated unequivocally it is understood that a continuance of the practice would be highly dangerous to neutral vessels, and would be viewed with deepest aanxiety here.

Restrict German Trade.

London, Feb. 11.—Premier Asquith in an announcement made to the house of commons this afternoon, said that the British government was about to take more stringent measures against the trade of Germany.

Replying to a question from Admiral Lord Charles Beresford whether the government will place all food and raw material used in German industries on the list of absolute contraband, the premier said:

"The government is considering the question of taking measures against German trade in view of the violation by the enemy of the rule of war. I hope shortly to make an announcement of what these measures are to be."

SHIP DACIA LEAVES ON TRIP TO GERMANY

Vessel Laden With Cotton Billed to German Port Will Doubtless Be Taken as British Prize.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 11.—The steamer Dacia finally sailed today with her cargo of cotton for Germany.

Great Britain has threatened to sieze the ship, questioning her transfer from German to American register, and she already has been the subject of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Great Britain. It is generally expected that a British cruiser will take her somewhere before she arrives in European waters, and that the case will be fought out in a prize court.

Voyage Will Be Watched.

Washington, Feb. 11.—State department officials will observe the progress of the Dacia across the Atlantic, content in the event of her siezure by British warships to have the issue of her transfer from German to American registry come before a prize court.

While British admiralty officials have announced they would regard the Dacia as a prize on their contention that her transfer was not bona fide, there is no question about her cargo that it was said would be forwarded to destination without expense to the owners or purchased by Great Britain.

State department officials, however, say they have satisfied themselves of the genuineness of the Dacia's sale, having seen the certified check given by Edward M. Breitung, the purchaser, to the Hamburg-American Steamships company.

New Agreement Probable.

If a prize court should rule adversely on the validity of the sale that would form the basis for further negotiations between the United States and Great Britain. That probably would involve the declaration of London—the international agreement governing prizes in naval warfare—over which questions of interpretation have arisen since the outbreak of hostilities.

Seize Wilhelmina's Cargo.

Falmouth, England, Feb. 11.—The cargo of the American steamer Wilhelmina was seized by the British authorities here today in accordance with the decision of the foreign office. The cargo is to go to a prize court.

WILL ARREST REDMEN FOR MAN'S FREEZING

Appleton Authorities Will Probably Take Course for Indians Permitting Man to Freeze.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, Feb. 11.—Two Indians will probably be arrested Monday following the second session of the coroner's jury charged with murdering Chas. Metoxem by causing him to freeze to death.

This probably will be the first time in the state that such a charge has ever confronted a prisoner in court.

The jury reviewed the remains yesterday and adjourned until today. Officials said today that warrants would probably follow the taking of testimony on Monday.

WISCONSIN SUFFRAGE BILL IS INTRODUCED

ASSEMBLYMAN BRADLEY OF HUDSON PROPOSES MEASURE BEFORE LOWER HOUSE TODAY.

BY REFERENDUM VOTE

Suggests That People Cast Decision on Equal Rights During November, 1916.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Feb. 11.—A bill to extend the right of suffrage to women was introduced in the assembly today by Assemblyman W. C. Bradley of Hudson. The bill also restores the section of the statute which gives persons of foreign birth who have declared their intention to become citizens, the right to exercise the right of suffrage. The measure provides for the submission to a referendum of the people at the November, 1916, election.

Assembly Prescott introduced a bill for one full rest day of twenty-four consecutive hours out of seventy-two to firemen in a paid fire department exception being made in the case of necessity.

Other bills provide state aid of $5,000 to the Seymour Fair and Driving association. The appointment of a sealer of weights and measures in all cities of 5,000 inhabitants, the official to be appointed by the mayor from a civil service list.

The bill to limit legislative sessions to ninety days was indefinitely postponed, and one to permit the adoption of counties outside of Milwaukee of the commission form of government was killed.

In the senate the Bosshard resolution memoralizing congress to stop the exportation of contraband goods was referred to the committee on welfare by a vote of 21 to 11, after considerable discussion.

The Ackley resolution memoralizing congress against the institution of a 2½ cent passenger fare, as determined by the interstate commerce commission, was ordered to a third reading.

COURT HOUSE BILL INTERESTS RACINE

Belle City Opposed Repeal of Law Requiring Construction Forty Feet From Other Buildings.

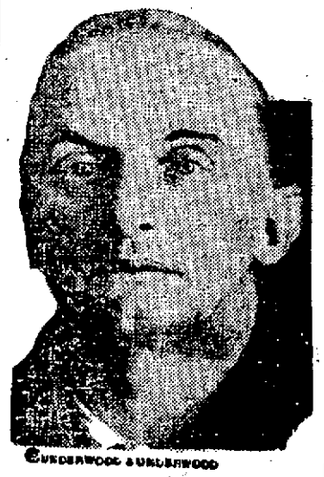

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—The Dixon bill to repeal the law passed two years ago requiring the construction of court houses forty feet from contiguous private property precipitated a two hours' debate before the assembly committee on state affairs yesterday afternoon. It turned out to be a proposition of interest particularly to the city of Racine, where the building of a new court house was at first attempted and later the plan of repairing the county court house was agreed upon. Assemblymen Dixon and Herzog appeared in favor of the repeal law. It was opposed by Clarence Snyder and W. A. Walker of Racine.

The entire differences regarding the construction of a court house at Racine was aired before the committee, Assemblyman Herzog claiming that it had cost the county between $35,000 and $40,000 in settling contracts and litigation, and that all the county had to show was a picture of the new court house. He said it was now proposed to remodel or repair the present building at a cost of about $50,000.

Mr. Snyder opposed the repeal of the law. He said that the court house was the capital of the county and should be given a proper setting. He pointed out that the federal government requires a forty-foot space in the erection of postoffices as a matter of fire protection and thought the records of a county far more valuable. He went over the history of the votes and the population represented by members of the county board who voted for and against the new court house, and told the committee that he offered no opposition to the repair of the present building, but did oppose the repeal of the law as applied to new buildings. W. A. Walker said he believed the present court house limitation law one of the best on the statute books and should be retained. Senator Everett favored a change in the law that will permit the repairs to be made. The committee made no report on the disposition of the bill, but will probably draft a substitute.

MAN WHO BLEW UP BOUNDARY BRIDGE

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

Werner Horn.

Here's the man who tried to blow up the bridge between the United States and Canada at Vanceboro, Maine. Local authorities at Vanceboro have jailed him for thirty days on a charge of maliciously destroying property in the town. Several windows were broken by the concussion when the charge of dynamite which he placed on the bridge exploded. At the end of thirty days Horn will either be turned over to Canada or taken in hand by federal authorities.

PUBLIC UTILITY LAW FINDS A CHAMPION IN TELEPHONE MAN

Ex-State Senator Gaveney of Arcadia Says State Telephone Service Was Much Improved.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—Before the Wisconsin State Telephone association at the opening session of its sixth annual convention here, J. C. Gaveney of Arcadia, ex-state senator and prominent conservative political leader of a decade ago, made a ringing speech in defense of the Wisconsin public utility law yesterday afternoon. Any attempt to destroy or curtail it should meet with the telephone men's strong opposition, he declared. It was a case of the proper work out of economic laws to bring telephony to its highest service for the benefit of the people whom it serves, he said.

"Ten years ago the telephone service in Wisconsin was in chaos, and fifteen to twenty years ago it was still worse. But now we have our public utility law. The Wisconsin law is one of the wisest pieces of legislation this state ever passed," he said, "and I believe that every man or party which would seek to destroy or curtail it will not only have the people opposed to their plan, but would find the companies equally opposed. The commission has been square with the people and the companies. We need umpires to stand between us and the public, otherwise one party may take advantage of the other.

"It is not the passage of new legislation that should concern us so much as it is to see that all such laws as this are not repealed by the legislature this winter. It is vital to our interests, for example, to see that the anti-duplication law of two years ago should not be repealed or interfered with. The success of this law is fast working out by connecting of switches or mergers, and the condition is coming in this state whereby one may talk to any other man in the state through any competing line at a fair rate.

"You can't do things in industry at less than cost. The railroads commission, therefore, in compelling telephone companies to analyze their costs, is so ordering economic laws as rapidly to work out the ideal system in the telephone field. What we want today is not more laws and regulations, but to pursue our business under the policy now in force and secure protection for capital and the largest service for the public at the cheapest price we can afford to ask for it."

In response to a question by former Assemblyman E. J. Kneen of Bangor, Mr. Gaveney stated he should be very much opposed to taking municipal plants away from control of the railroad commission, as a pending bill seeks to do. He declared the Wisconsin way of handling utilities is economically correct and is working out to the satisfaction of the people.

The following committees were appointed by President W. L. Smith, Neillsville.

Registration—W. E. Lawton, Viroqua; W. S. Halsted, Baraboo; S. E. Burke, Monroe.

Resolutions—E. J. Kneen, Bangor; Howard Teasdale, Sparta; H. O. Seymour, Milwaukee; W. F. Goodrich, La Crosse; J. C. Crowley, Jr., Superior.

Entertainment—Walter J. Gallon, Sheboygan; L. W. Burch, Madison; F. M. Bunkel, Portage.

Exhibits—J. B. McMullen, Toman, J. F. Prentiss, Watertown; Julius Storkenson, La Crosse.

Transportation—C. L. Miller, Madison; E. F. Baley, Wonewoc; P. C. Brown, Edgerton; W. S. Pedley, Mineral Point; E. W. Barnes, Ripon.

Credentials—P. L. Bestor, Mazomanie; William Kurth, Neillsville; J. C. Marsh, Marshfield; D. L. Remington, Osseo; H. A. Price, Markesan.

Legislative—F. H. Runkel, Portage; W. T. Sparks, Lodi; W. F. Goodrich, La Crosse; Conrad Engsberg, Lake Mills; W. L. Smith, Neillsville.

Seating—E. B. Smart, Grand Rapids; H. H. Christofferson, Colby; C. H. Walker, Brooklyn; F. W. McKenus, Clinton.

Following a discussion on the problem of affection of telephone lines by high tension wire parallelisms, it was decided to seek agreement with the electrical and power interests for mutural understanding.

G. C. Mathews, accounting department of the railroad commission, discussed the commission's system of classifying telephone accounts, comparing it to the interstate commerce commission's system to the disadvantage of the latter. The association will probably be represented at Washington when the federal commission holds a hearing March 4 on uniformity of telephone accounting.

The workmen's compensation act was discussed by Chairman C. H. Crownhart, and legislation by J. C. Gaveney.

W. S. Pedley of Mineral Point spoke this morning on "The Value of Maintenance of Lines and Equipment to the Company and to the Community," and G. A. Joy on "Stopping the Leaks." Governor Philipp has promised to attend the association's banquet tonight. The convention will close Friday noon.

JESUIT ORDER HAS NAMED NEW GENERAL

Father Le Boschowsky Will Succeed Father Wernz Who Passed Away Last August.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rome, Feb. 11.—Father Le Bochowsky was today elected general of the Society of Jesus in succession to Father Francisco Xavier Wernz.

The generals of the Society of Jesus, the formal name of the organization of Jesuits, are elected for life, by the General Congregation of this order which is one of monastic origin. The general of the society is known as the "Black Pope."

Father Wernz died August 20 in Rome, a few hours after the death of Pope Pius. Anxiety over the war is said to have hastened his end. Then Father Fines, the assistance Jesuit General for France, was selected to head the order which he did until the present election.

Father Le Bochowsky was formerly assistant general for Germany. He is a nephew of the late cardinal Le Bochowsky.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sheboygan, Feb. 11.—More than 1,100 young people last night attended the 10c dancing school established for their benefit two weeks ago by Mrs. Peter Reiss, society leader and wife of the president of the C. Reiss Coal company. Mrs. Reiss personally pays the corps of teachers who instruct the young people.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW TOO MUCH LIMITED; WOULD WIDEN SCOPE

But Opponents to Proposed Measure Say That Statute Would Be Useless If Bill Carried.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—Believing that the state civil service law is too limited in the power that it gives to an appointing officer in making his selections from the eligible list, Senator J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua presented a bill in the senate today extending the scope of the law in that respect. At the present time whenever an appointment is to be made the commission must certify the names of the three highest on the list and the appointment is made from this number, unless those certified shall refuse to take the position offered. Senator Bennett's bill provides for the certification of ten names, any one of whom may be appointed. In case there are not more than five names on the eligible list the appointing officer may go outside of the list in making his appointment. Friends of the civil service law claim that the Bennett bill will destroy to a large degree the effect of the law.

Senator Bennett also presented a bill for the repeal of the present state tax commission and the creation of the office of tax commissioner. Under the terms of the Bennett bill this official will be appointed for a term of eight years at a salary of $6,000 a year. He shall be appointed by the governor on and by the advice and consent of the senate.

"It leaves the powers of the tax commission just as they are now," said Senator Bennett," with the exception that there will be one commissioner instead of the three under the present law. It will save the state money and the work of the tax commission will go on."

The administration forces have prepared a bill that differs somewhat from the terms of the Bennett bill. The administration measure, which will be presented later in the week, provides for one tax commissioner and two ex-officio commissioners. These ex-officio commissioners will be the governor and the attorney general, who will receive no pay as tax commissioners. The administration measure provides for the appointment of the commissioner by the governor for a term of four years at a salary of $6,000 a year. It is known that the administration bill was offered to Senator Bennett to introduce, but he had already prepared a bill of his own, which he preferred.

LAUNCH SUBMARINE AT QUINCY YARDS

Second Craft of Eight Authorized By Congress in 1912 Is Floated Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Quincy, Mass., Feb. 11.—The submarine L-2 to be launched at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation today, is the second of eight authorized by congress in 1912, the L-1 having been launched here several months ago. Mrs. Amie Gray of Boston, mother of Ensign Augustine H. Gray, who will command the L-2, was chosen as sponsor.

The L-2 is 170 feet long and has a surface displacement of 450 tons. Her contract calls for speed of 14 knots on the surface, and 11½ knots under water.

RUSSIANS PURCHASE A NEW ICE-BREAKER

Newfoundland Craft Will Be Used to Keep Navigation Open in White Sea.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Feb. 11.—The steel steamer Lintrose built for the Reid Newfoundland company in 1913 has been purchased by the Russian government for service as an ice breaker in the White Sea. The vessels will replace the Canadian government ice breaker Earl Gray, which proved inadequate to cope with the sever conditions and is now frozen in at Archangel.

DES MOINES SALOONS TO CLOSE SATURDAY

City Council of Iowa City Refuse To Grant New Licenses—Eighty Saloons Must Close

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 11.—The city council here today refused to grant the saloon keepers a renewal of their licenses. This means that the 80 saloons of Des Moines will permanently close their doors Saturday night.

CLEVELAND FEARS THE "JITNY BUS."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Cleveland O., Feb. 11.—Cleveland fears the "jitny bus."

Cleveland city officials and street railway officials alike are on record today against the new auto-bus competition to street cars because it means the elimination of Cleveland's well known three cent street car fare.

The city regulates the street cars. If the earnings of the Cleveland Railway company are over a stipulated amount, fares remain three cents. If they fall below, the fare reverts to five cents.

The popularity of the "jitney bus" sweeping East from the Pacific coast, already has invaded Ohio. Two plans to install the "jitnies" in Cincinnati are now being worked out. One promoter is said to have ordered fifty with the trailers. Cleveland, it is feared, is next. The congested street car traffic here which has already caused plans to be drawn for a subway system, would be shared with the "jitny buses" and would cut down the earnings of the railway company to such an extent that five cent fare would be a permanent infliction.

DEMOCRATS DECIDE UPON NEW PROGRAM FOR SHIPPING BILL

AGREE TO ABANDON SENATE FIGHT AND START TACTICS IN HOUSE ON A NEW ANGLE.

WILSON IS DETERMINED

President Remains Firm in His Purpose to Call a Special Session if Plan Fails Within the Next Two Weeks.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 11.—The situation in the fight over the administration's ship bill underwent a complete change today, as the result of conferences between President Wilson and congress leaders.

It was determined to relax the fight in the senate, thus suspending the historic filibuster, while the important appropriation bills were passed.

Meanwhile Senator Gore's substitute for the administration bill will be introduced in the house as an amendment to the Weeks' bill, another ship measure, which already has passed the senate under a special rule, and it would be perfected to meet the views of the administration and then be presented to the senate for action as a new proposition. The present bill, over which the long fight has ensued, would be allowed to die in committee.

When the new bill comes over from the house, if the fight in the senate is renewed upon it, President Wilson will decide whether to call an extra session of congress for consideration of the ship bill alone. His advisors in congress today were giving him advice in both directions.

At the White House the president's determination to pass the bill was reiterated, and it was said a decision as to an extra session awaited the development in congress.

In the house tentative arrangements were made to take up the ship bill immediately after the passage of the pending sundry bill. It was expected the ship bill could be put through next week.

Renew Fight Today.

The fighting over the administration ship purchase bill was renewed in the senate today with the fate of the measure still hanging in the balance and with prospects for an extra session of congress increasing.

The senate adjourned at 6:11 o'clock last night after a continuous session lasting 54 hours and 11 minutes, the longest in its history. The adjournment was forced by a combination of republican insurgent democrats with the aid of Senators Norris and Kenyon, progressive republicans.

LA FOLLETTE FAVORS SHIP PURCHASE BILL

Opponents of Measure, He Writes, Fear Government Will Make War on Shipping "Trust."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—That the opponents of government-owned vessels to carry American products to foreign markets have at heart no fear that the administration will involve us in war with any foreign country, but that the real fear is that the government will make war on the "shipping trust," is the opinion expressed by Senator La Follette in an editorial published today. He says that the bill for government owned ships has been buried under a mass of bitter partisan discussion. He says that this has been clearly managed by republican senators who are hostile to public ownership of any public utilities.

"And today these same senators profess to believe, and would have the country believe, that back under cover, behind this bill, the president has some dark and sinister plan to force a war with the allies," says Senator La Follette. "If war is urking anywhere in this proceeding, it must be behind the bill. It is not written in its terms. It cannot be found within its four corners."

Senator La Follette then traces the history of legislation of this character calling attention particularly to court decisions on this subject.

"This hue and cry about the purchase of German ships plunging us into war with Great Britain lacks sincerity," he continues. "President Wilson will not, for the saving of a few thousand dollars in the purchasing of a ship, hazard the awful cost of war. He will permit nothing to be done that will in any way disturb conditions of neutrality, and it is unnecessary by congressional action to sacrifice our long established rights of a neutral."

SURGEON WINS HONOR BY BRAVERY ON BATTLEFIELD; WORKED THOUGH WOUNDED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Feb. 11—Dr. Dercle, surgeon in the French aarmy, was decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor at the Val-de-Grace Hospital recently after having been several times mentioned in the orders of the day. He was wounded no less than 97 times before he gave up his service. Many times slightly wounded since the beginning of the war, he dressed his own wounds and refused to abandon his post, but finally he fell under three very serious wounds that required his transportation to a hospital.

SEES SMALL CHANCE TO SECURE PARDON

District Attorney Doubts Possibility of Success if Loguidice Petitions Governor.

District Attorney Dunwiddie was inclined to be skeptical of the possibilities for success in the rumored move to secure a pardon from Governor Philipp for Philip Loguidice, the Beloit Italian, whose appeal from conviction and sentence in the circuit court on the charge of threatening to disfigure Frances D'Amore was lost before the supreme court. Word from Beloit today indicated that Loguidice's friends were ready to take the last step in an effort to save the young man from the penitentiary.

Loguidice, himself, is ready to go to prison. Wednesday morning he appeared at Chief of Police Qualman's office offering to give himself up at once. "When does my sentence start?" he asked. The officer was unable to give information as official notification has not been received.

It is probable, however, that the records and orders in the case will be received at the circuit court within a few days when the sheriff will be notified and Loguidice will be taken into custody. During the time occupied with the appeal Loguidice has been steadily employed at the Fairbanks-Morse plant in Beloit. He has been a member of the Italian band, playing a clarinet in the organization. Tuesday night, after learning that his sentence had been affirmed he resigned from the band because one of its by-laws provides that no one who has been convicted of any crime can be a member.

Loguidice's friends still hold firm in their belief that the young man is innocent and they say that time will prove their contentions.

EVERYDAY DOG FIGHT LEADS TO BITTER FISTIC ENCOUNTER

A common every-day dog fight staged at the corner of Washington avenue and Cherry street last night came near resulting in the arrest of two men, who were first spectators and then interested participants in a near riot. The two animals, one a white bull dog and the other a spry black collie, fought with intensity for fifteen minutes and soon had an interesting gallery. The collie was outpointing the bulldog by a good margin when the latter obtained a solid hold on the collie and "clanked" his jaws on the animal's neck.

One of the spectators stopped the fight and started away when the collie started the fray again by making a rush at the retreating bull dog. Two men stood near the scene of action and one wished to see the "sport" continued while the other wanted to end hostilities. Soon the argument waged bitter back and forth between the two men and as the crowd grew larger the verbal argument continued, and the dog fight shaded into insignificance when the fists began to fly between the men. One received a black eye and the other got a nasty cut on the cheek in return. After an exchange of blows for a few minutes, someone stopped both the man and dog fight with the announcement "that the police were coming."

LOST AND FOUND.

Found Articles of Value Must Be Advertised.

Did you know that if you find an article of value on a public highway you are obliged by law to advertise it? Here is the law covering the situation:

"Section 1615—Every finder of lost goods of the value of $10 or more, shall within fifteen days after finding the same, cause notice thereof to be published in a newspaper printed in the county, if there be one published therein. Section 1618—If any finder of lost money or goods of the value of $3 or upwards shall neglect to give notice of the same and otherwise to comply with the provisions of this chapter, he shall be liable for the full value of the money or goods one-half to the use of the town and the other half to the person who shall sue for the same, and shall also be responsible to the owner for such lost money or goods."

The rate of advertising in the Gazette is 1c per word per insertion. When cash accompanies order a discount of 25 per cent is made.

THREE DRUNKS IN COURT; ONE GIVEN FIFTEEN DAYS

The record of two weeks straight without a case of intoxication in the municipal court was broken this morning when three men were brought before Judge Maxfield for being drunk and disorderly. James Rodgers, a floater, who was arrested by Officer Cain while trying to sell lead pencils on the main streets, was given fifteen days in default of a fifteen dollar fine.

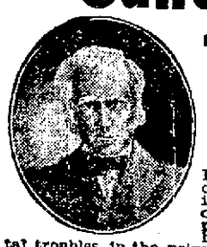

Louis Stevens, transient, was told to leave the city within an hour's time or he would be sentenced. Stevens made good his opportunity.

Adolph Pushkar, an old offender, plead not guilty and his case was set for tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

Safety First

Chicago & Northwestern Ry.

The B. & B. department is replacing a smoke stack at the roundhouse, above the stationary engine room.

Engines 390 and 1119 have been dispatched to the Chicago shops for repairs. Engineers Hackshaw and Siebert took them in.

Four Z class engines which have been in storage here for some time, have been sent to the Lake Shore division. They were the 1461, 1480, 1486 and 1489.

Extras from Chicago and Fond du Lac arrived yesterday.

The floor and stalls of the middle section of the roundhouse are being repaired under the direction of Foreman Riordan. The floor of the shop section is also having a few touches added.

Robert Springsteen, chief clerk of the motive power department under John King at Harvard, visited the South Janesville shops yesterday.

John Wallace of the general purchasing agent's office, caller Tuesday.

Trainmaster J. J. Burns was in the city Tuesday.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Alex Young, general foreman of the Chicago shops, mentioned several days ago as an appointee likely to assume the duties of Walter Alexander as master mechanic of the Milwaukee district, is now in Milwaukee looking over the duties. It is understood that Mr. Young will accept the position.

Roundhouse Foreman Lombard of Milwaukee, has been transferred to Chicago, an act consdered to be a promation in Milwaukee road shop circles.

Al. Klumb, assistant to Mr. Alexander previous to the latter's appointment to the Wisconsin railroad commission, although in line for the position, refused to accept, it is understood, because of poor health. Mr. Klumb has suffered two paralytic strokes recently and he felt that the responsibilities pursuant to the office were too heavy a burden to be assumed in the present status of his health.

Brakeman George Barry of the M. P. Division was in Milwaukee yesterday and Tuesday, undergoing examination for conductor. George came home last night, but it will be some time before the results of his endeavor will be known. Everybody wishes George the best of luck.

J. W. Devoy of Milwaukee, assistant to the superintendent of motive power, was in the city yesterday on business.

J. W. Allen, roundhouse foreman, spent today at Milwaukee.

Engines 356 and 457 are in the shops for repairs.

Milt Cook, foreman of the line department of the middle district, has a large gang of linemen at work repairing the company's telegraph routes about Janesville. The storm did lots of trouble and it is not until the present time that normal service is a possibility.

Frank F. Flaherty, Shop Foreman Allen's assistant, was compelled to leave for his home this morning, because of illness.

P. C. Eldridge, general superintendent; C. H. Agne, trains dispatcher, and N. P. Thurber, superintendent of Milwaukee, stopped in the city throughout the night, following a tour of inspection and one for business interests over the Mineral Point division. They arrived here yesterday morning and were accompanied west by Roadmaster Frankling, returning last night. This morning they were met by E. W. Morrison, superintendent of the Chicago division, and accompanied him over that line today.

Trespass Laws.

An interesting bulletin has just been issued by the Railway Business association. It is entitled "The Deadly Toll of Trespass on Railways" and urges upon state legislatures stricter and stricter laws for the prevention of trespassing.

"There were," the bulletin declares, "38,000 persons under 21 years of age killed or injured while trespassing on railways of the United States from 1901 to 1910, enough to make a mile post for every mile around the world."

Progress toward enactment of laws providing effective penalties and toward conviction and sentences for those who wilfully expose themselves to danger is said to be slowly spreading, while loss of life and damage as affecting railways is increasing. France punishes trespassers by fines up to $579 and jail up to a month; Germany, by fines up to $25; Canada by fines up to $50 and imprisonment up to two months. In the United Kingdom persons other than passengers or employes found on railroad property are fined $10 for each offense.

"In the United States laws are few, and even where penalties are prescribed, magistrates hesitate to impose them, as local authorities dislike to feed and lodge convicted tramps." Trespassers, however, "include little children and wage earners living in the vicinity, whose death or disability often leaves families destitute.

"Elevation of track in Chicago was resorted to at an expense of seventy millions, which is expected to reach 150 millions. Trespassers leap over a city ordinance and climb up onto the elevation in their conscientious devotion to the pursuit of being killed and maimed. In three months 329 arrests were made on the elevated right of way of four systems. Only 67 of the offenders were punished.

Lack of Statutes.

"Thirty-five states have no laws specifically prohibiting persons walking on railroad right of way. Thirteen states by statute prescribe penalties ranging from $5 fine to ten days in jail in Maine to $500 fine or one year in jail in New York. These states are New York, Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Virginia, Missouri, Rhode Island, Delaware, Georgia, Minnesota and Washington. Missiuro has a law which protects the railroad from damage suits, for the purpose of which trespass is a defense for the railroad, but the law in defining the act a trespass for that purpose specifically says "but not otherwise."

Activity on the part of many railroads to lessen the number of fatal accidents on their lines is bearing fruit. The New York Central Lines took the question up with justices of the peace and court magistrates armed statistics. Newspapers were urged to give the campaign publicity. Warnings in several languages were posted, while manufacturers and public school teachers were enlisted. The railroad's police department made arrests systematically. During May, June and July, 1914, there were 4,545 arrests and 4,015 convictions. In seven months ended April 30, 1914, there was a reduction in those killed over the corresponding period one year previous from 136 to 98.

"Minors and children, following the example of their elders, flock upon the track, engines, cars and turntable and are ground to pieces or crippled for life. Tramps and yeggmen travel around the country in 'side door Pullmans', robbing box cars and burning ties, stations, bridges and timbers, and robbing farmers, country banks, stores and postoffices.

"It would probably cost the states and municipalities less to enforce a law against trespassing, than it does to pick up and bury the dead and care for the cripples."

Yards Slippery and Bad.

Switching, braking and other yard work is dangerous these days. The damp, foggy atmosphere causes the smoke and steam to cloud the air a great deal until it is difficult to see more than a few rods ahead. Under foot, water and ice are equally distributed about between the tracks and ties. Special warnings have been issued to the men on both roads to watch their steps during this danger period.

Wednesday's Markets.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—There was another sharp decline in hog values, which are 50c lower than a week ago, when prices were lowest in about three years. Best closed at $6.65.

Receipts of swine at all western markets have been very large recently. The six leading points in the last three days got 98,000 more than a week ago and 86,000 more than a year ago.

Better grades of beef cattle sold yesterday at unevenly lower prices. The average of about $7.50 was 50c below last week and the lowest since April, 1912. Prevailing quotations are $1 under a year ago.

Big Drop in Lambs.

Notwithstanding a break of nearly $1 from high point last week, lambs are still selling 40@50c above high time in February, 1914, when best sold at $8.10.

Receipts for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 40,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep, against 5,310 cattle, 24,402 hogs and 14,865 sheep a week ago and 5,392 cattle, 32,573 hogs and 24,705 sheep a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $6.62, against $6.77 Tuesday, $7.14 a week ago, $8.77 a year ago, $8.32 two years ago and $6.09 three years ago.

Yesterday's hog purchases follow:

Armour & Co.	11,500
Swift & Co.	5,200
S. & S. Co.	4,300
Morris & Coo.	3,500
Anglo-American	3,500
Hammond & Co.	3,500
Boyd-Lundy	3,500
Western P. Co.	2,300
Roberts & Oakes	1,800
Miller & Hart	1,200
Independent P. Co.	800
Brennan Co.	3,800
Butchers	1,000
Shippers	1,000
	4,000
Total	47,400

Hog Market Low.

The second largest hog run in a month caused a 5@25c break in quotations yesterday. Market weakened as the day advanced, bulk of selling late at 20c decline. Big packing droves, the day advanced, selling late at 20c decline. Big packing droves; 227@243 lbs., cost—$6.53@6.63. Speculators bought some early that later sold 15c below first cost when the paid $6.67½.

Closing quotations follow:

Bulk of sales	$6.55@6.65
Heavy butchers and shipping	6.55@6.65
Light butchers, 190@230 lbs	6.50@6.65
Light bacon, 145@190 lbs.	6.40@6.65
Heavy packing, 260@400 lbs	6.35@6.55
Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs	6.40@6.55
Rough, heavy packing	6.25@6.35
Poor to best pigs, 60@135 lbs.	5.00@8.55
Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head	5.85@6.30

Big Decline in Cattle.

Several thousand more cattle than were generally expected, slack shipping orders and a dull dressed beef trade all helped to weaken the market. Prices were 35@75c lower than Wednesday, Feb. 3, high day last week. Veal calves are $1@1.50 off from high time last week. Quotations follow:

Choice to fancy steers	$7.35@ 8.60
Poor to good steers	5.40@ 7.25
Yearling steers, fair to fancy	6.30@ 8.70
Fat cows and heifers	4.50@ 7.60
Canning cows and heifers	3.25@ 4.40
Native bulls and stags	4.50@ 6.75
Poor to fancy veal calves	7.00@10.50

Mutton Trade Bad.

Another uneven decline in prices yesterday carried top lambs to $8.50, or 50c lower than Monday and 85c off from week ago, the high day of the year. Packers have the whip hand and predict still lower prices, owing to bad condition of eastern mutton trade and increasing receipts at all western markets. Quotations follow:

Lambs, common to fancy	$7.35@8.50
Lambs, poor to good culls	6.50@7.30
Yearlings, poor to best	7.00@7.75
Wethers, poor to fancy	6.30@7.00
Ewes, inferior to choice	4.25@6.60
Bucks, common to choice	4.25@4.75

SUICIDES IN WARSAW DECREASED ONE THIRD SINCE CONFLICT OPENED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Petrograd, Feb. 11.—Police reports for the past year from Warsaw show that the number of suicides there has decreased one-third, notwithstanding the thousands of starving refugees who have crowded the city since the beginning of the war.

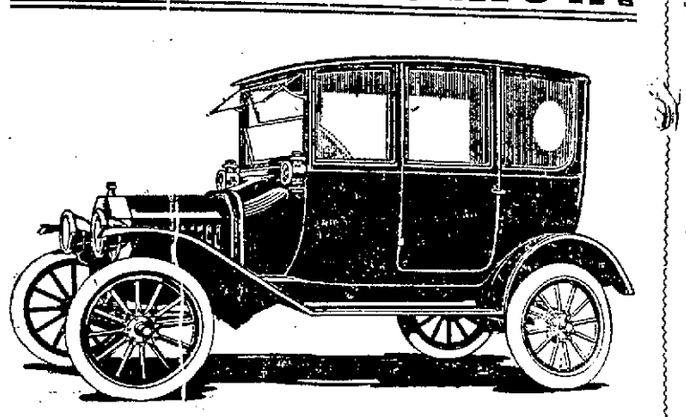

The number of suicides last year was 671, as against 1,006 for the previous year.

REULBACH'S RELEASE STIRS BASEBALLDOM; SLAP AT FATERNITY

Players Look Upon Canning of Former Cub Star as Policy Magnates Will Adopt Toward Union.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Feb. 11.—In the unconditional release of "Big Ed" Reulbach by President Charley Ebbets of the Brooklyn Dodgers many persons interested in baseball politics profess to see a direct slap at the Players' Fraternity. They also profess to sight in Ebbets' action a general policy that is to be adopted by all magnates toward players who become active in the ranks of the "Union."

Reulbach is secretary of the Fraternity and with his former teammate, Jake Daubert, was one of the most active men in Dave Fultz's organization. "Big Ed" will be remembered as one of the committee that presented the players' claims to the National Commission last winter and he also was one of the leading figures in the threatened strike in the Kraft case last season. He was one of the very first to announce he would walk out. And he had the support of his teammates in the announcement.

In explaining why he had released the veteran, Ebbets said he did so on advice of Manager Robinson, who thought several recruits could do more and better work. He also said that Reulbach's last season's record was partly responsible.

While the old Cub star was not a howling success last year he did more work than he has done since 1908. His record shows he worked in forty-four games, winning eleven and dropping eighteen. He allowed 2.64 earned runs a game, which is not an awfully bad showing. When one takes into consideration that the Dodgers did not stand very high in the percentage table when the curtain rang down on the season his record doesn't look so rotten,—at least not "unconditionally" rotten. Only one Brooklyn pitcher, Jeff Pfeffer, had a better record.

Reulbach probably will hook up with a Federal league team this season, as no organized team seems to be exactly pining for his services.

Reulbach's passing, if he has passed, marks the further disintegration of the famous old Cub machine of world's championship days.

Reulbach was one of the famous old trio, Overall-Brown-Reulbach, which was in those days what Rudolph, Tyler and James is now. Overall has just released by the San Francisco club in the Coast league and it is said that Miner Brown is about to get the gate by the Feds. Frank Chance got his release and has retired to his orange groves. Johnny Kling has gone back to his billiard emporium. Jimmy Sheckard, who last year managed the Cleveland American Association club, has been released; Harry Steinfeldt died last summer and Artie Hoffman is now with the Brooklyn Feds.

Reulbach came to the Doders in the season of 1913 when Johnny Kerrs, then manager of the Cubs, traded him for pitcher Eddie Stack. In 1906-07-08 "Big Ed" was one of the best hurlers in the business. With Overall and Brown he pitched the Cubs to several pennants and world's championships.

His best year was in 1906 when he worked in 34 games, winning 19 and dropping 4. His complete record since joining the Cubs in 1905 follows:

Club	Year	Games	W	L	Pct.
Chicago	...1905	34	18	4	.552
Chicago	...1906	34	19	4	.826

TENNIS CRACKS TO COMPETE TOMORROW.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

New York, Feb. 11.—Notable tennis cracks will compete tomorrow in the sixteenth annual indoor lawn tennis tournament, on the courts of the Seventh Regement Armory. The holder of the single championship will receive the seventh regiments cup won in 1912 by Grant and in 1913 and 1914 by G. F. Touchard. If Touchard wins again this year, the cup will become his property.

Among the notable entries are I. Wright and A. S. Dabson of Yale. King Smith will act as referee.

CHASE TRIMS WILCOX AT VOLLEY BALL, 21 TO 7

A game of volley ball with seven players on each side, played a very interesting match at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium yesterday afternoon, Chase defeating Wilcox, 21 to 7. Richards and Manross meet on Friday afternoon.

MORRIS MILLER

"The value of a bunt does not lie in the first attempt, but in the following," says the leader of the St. Louis Browns. "Most players, when they are told to lay it down with a man on base, get in there and run it out. This is the mistake many of them make. But now, to show that the value of a bunt is with the succeeding attempts: if a batter bunts once, of course, the first and third sackers will draw in the next time he comes to the plate. Then all the hitter has to do is to hit it a little harder, and nine times out of ten he will own a base hit."

Katsy Keifer, a pitcher with Battle Creek in the Southern Michigan league, is worrying some these days as to what the future has in store for him. After the Southern Michigan season closed, he jumped to the Feds, or thought he did. He pitched one game for the Indianapolis outlaws—and then they let him go. Now he is inquiring if there is a chance for him to square himself and return to Battle Creek next season. They should bring Katsey Keifer into the big leagues. Any player with a name like that is worthy of one swing around the big league country, just to let the "humorists" dedicate a few verses and quips to the honorable name of Katsy Kiefer.

It is said that Peckinpaugh's new New York contract calls for $21,000 for three years. And this is the player whom the Cleveland club tried to shunt to Portland—and would have succeeded had not ex-Manager Chance traded Outfielder Stumpf and Lelivelt for him.

Horse racing will probably be resumed in Arkansas next winter. A bill to make this possible was passed by the house last week and is now before the senate, where it has many friends. By legalizing racing there will be enough money derived each meet to pay the premiums at the state fair. The annual exhibition of the products and resources of the state, although given annually for the past nine years, has never been a financial success. The last state fair left a deficit of nearly $6,000, and the citizens of Hot Springs have had to bear burdens of this kind each year. Thus far the state fair has cost Hot Springs over $125,000.

Though it has been hinted time and time again that the other seven clubs in the American league would make a special effort to strengthen the New York Yankees, it is noticeable that in every instance where a club has offered to turn a player over to the Yankees a star has been demanded in return. Maisel and Caldwell seem to be the only ones acceptable to the other clubs. Hedges would have been willing to hand over Earl Hamilton providing he could get Maisel, and during the recent gathering in New York it developed that Bill Carrigan would have given Bill Donovan, one of his left handers, if he could get Ray Caldwell in return. Any ball club that figures it is going to get a winning team handed to it by its rivals is going to be sadly disappointed. There is only one way that a winner has ever been gotten together, and that is for the man in charge to go out and dig for himself.

"I've grown tired of coddling the players," was the recent outburst of Manager Ebbets of the Brooklyn Dodgers. "All last season I tried to keep my players in line by meeting the Federal league offers. That has cost me a lot of money. The whole gang can jump, if it wants to. They can't gouge me for another dollar. Salaries have been boosted far beyond proportion. Every dollar being made in baseball is going to the players these days. I'm offering my men salaries that I think are in keeping with what they earn. During the past year I have paid them salaries above their earning capacity. But I'm through now. Any of my men who want to jump can jump. I'll fill their places; I'll get semipros if necessary."

Grover Laudermilk, the lanky right-hander, bought by the Browns from the Louisville Colonels, is peevish because his name has not been linked with Federal league offers. Grover comes out with the statement that he has been pestered by the Federals, but will stick to his agreement with Mr. Hedges. Now nice!

"THE BARGAIN" A WONDERFUL PICTURE

Beautiful and Natural Effects Are Worked Into Paramount Picture.

The Apollo theatre gave the audiences yesterday an entirely new idea of western pictures in the Paramount feature, "The Bargain." No blood and thunder, villain and hero scenes were included. Every foot of film told its story with a wide camera scope of surrounding details.

Instead of showing the front of a store or saloon to represent village life, the entire town is worked in with the proper local color for the various interests in their natural positions. A mammoth dance hall, saloon and gambling hall gives an indication of what one would really expect of such a place.

Evidently Thomas H. Ince determined to give himself a free rein in producing a typical western subject on an extraordinary large scale. The exteriors, photographed in the Arizona canyon, offer a sequence of glorious views in which the rugged wildness of a virgin country predominates. There is variety and a keen regard for a wise placing of the camera in gaining picturesque effects.

William S. Hart as Jim Stokes, the two-gun man, portrayed a most interesting character.

CONG QUINT PREPARE FOR METHODIST GAME

Hard Fight Expected When Rivals Clash Friday Night at High School for Church League Title.

The Congregational church league team are preparing strenuously for its hard game with the Methodists Friday evening at the high school gymnasium for the championship of the league.

The Congregationals hope to have Phil Taylor in their lineup tomorrow night. The addition of him to the squad would increase the team's guarding ability considerably. The Methodists practiced hard last evening for over an hour, and are in fit trim for the battle. Beard, who is laid up with a bad foot hopes to get into the game.

The other game of the evening will be a fast one. The Baptists feel confident they can trim the Presbyterians. If the Baptists do win, and the Methodists cop a victory, then the latter must trim the Catholics to get the cup.

THE RAIL ROAD MEN THANK THE GOOD JUDGE.

A MAN'S comfort is a precious thing—chewing tobacco can mar or make a man's pleasure and contentment.

That's the reason why "Righ-Cut" users are so eager to tell their friends about the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary cardinal tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

WHAT IS AN AMERICAN?

So much is being said these days about citizenship and war sympathy, that it might be out of character to ask, What is an American?" Everybody of course understands that there are two ways of acquiring citizenship—one by birth, the other by adoption.

This country has perhaps more adopted citizens than any other, because its natural advantages have long attracted the people from every land, and its freedom of thought and action has induced many of these people to become full-fledged citizens, and cast in their lot among us.

Citizenship means vastly more than a name. It means protection and the right to enjoy all the privileges which the nation affords. It demands in return, loyalty to the flag and all that it represents. This demand, expressed in the oath of allegience, is a sacred obligation and is usually so regarded.

The old world war, in which a dozen nations are interested directly or indirectly, presents to America a problem which the nation has never been called upon to meet before, and there is a disposition on the part of some of our people, to draw lines of demarkation in the realm of citizenship. As a result we hear a good deal about the German-American, the Irish-American, or the British-American.

These prefixes are not only misleading but they are an insult to American citizenship. This free land knows nothing about nationalities, in its citizenship, and if the nation was assaulted by any of the nations of the old world, every loyal citizen would rally to protect the flag to which he owes first allegiance.

Love for the fatherland and sympathy for it in the struggle now going on, is natural and right, but the fact that much of this love finds expression in words rather than in sacrifice, indicates that the great heart of the American people is a unit, so far as national loyalty is concerned. This is as it should be. The only trouble is that we are inclined to let our sympathies run away with our judgment, in discussing the question.

We may theorize until the topic is exhausted and place the responsibility to our own satisfaction, and yet the war confronts us in all its frightful aspects. The flower of the old world is rapidly being depleted in a death struggle which presents no parallel in history. No mind is large enough to grasp the situation, and no pen can paint the picture in all its awful details.

America is the one great nation which enjoys the unique position of an interested and sympathetic spectator. Her loyal citizenship has encouraged strict neutrality, and this is of vital importance. There is no law to prevent any American citizen from going back to the land of his birth and casting in his lot with the army, but so long as he continues to enjoy American protection and privileges, his first allegiance is not difficult to trace.

ANTI-GERMAN VIEW.

The American press has been said to be anti-German in its utterances. Perhaps that is true, and among the leading, usually conservative publications of the country. The Wall Street Journal, the ideas on questions in which Germany is vitally interested, is portrayed in the following editorial on the "Astigmatism of Power."

"If Germany would correctly define her position on what have hitherto been considered the laws of war and the rights of neutrals, this country's policy would be simpler. To protest against the use of a neutral flag on a British ship carrying non-belligerents, neutrals and neutral mails, after Germany has used neutral flags for mine sowing in the Baltic, the North Sea and off the north coast of Ireland, after bombarding Penang under a neutral flag, the complaint seems far-fetched.

"After protesting the shipment of arms from this country to belligerents, when supplying arms to every small nation which could be inveigled into a fight, and shipping a cargo of arms into Mexico with the United States in occupation of Vera Cruz, complaint of the use of a neutral flag, (which has always been recognized as a fair ruse de guerre) sounds like the merest hypocrisy.

"If Germany would come out frankly and announce that she proposed to use every means, regardless of humanity, and ask no favors, the position taken, even if unmoral, would at least be logical. But the demand that all the world, belligerents and neutrals as well, shall observe the strictest Queensberry rules, while she hits below the belt, or even hits the not even consistent with the cultural referee, is the veriest squealing. It is doctrine of war which she applied with such ghastly effect in Belgium and northern France.

"In our own day and generation we have known instances of men in public life, or in great financial business, who convinced themselves that they might do, for what they regarded as high reasons of state, or the requirements of high finance, what they would condemn in other people. From this followed the inconvenient and repudiated interview, the short cut to great enterprise blocked by an unprogressive Central American republic, the corporate financing which justified the actviities of the department of justice.

"It is the same with a nation when it gets a similar conception of its importance. If it is to say that, for needed territorial expansion, or 'a place in the sun,' it may set at naught moral laws far more important to humanity than those desirable things, one end is certain. Our great statesmen and financiers who take that view retire permanently from the limelight. Nations adopting such methods end by antagonizing the whole world.

"Whatever Germany may hold in her exclusive interpretation of morals and logic, she cannot get away from the axiom that the whole is greater than the part. It may be that for an excuse to make peace, the German government would wish to plead to the German people that the whole world is against her. If this is so, the war party sacrifices the last shred of decency, and will find itself without a friend when peace negotiations begin."

WEIGLE CONFIRMED.

The senate has confirmed the appointment of Mr. Weigle as dairy and food commissioner sent to it by Governor Philipp. It was accomplished in the face of a strong opposition led by the La Follette republicans, who sought to retain Mr. Emery, not for any other reason than that they expected it would be a thorn in the side of the conservative republicans of the state. Mr. Weigle's confirmation is along the line of conservative administration of public affairs.

The Milwaukee Sentinel calls attention to one of the abuses of the state finances by this same department in the following editorial:

"In his initial message Governor Philipp pointed out the utterly absurd and unconscionable growth of the cost of state printing from $84,916.27 in 1904 to $259,665.50 in 1914. How much of this drain on the taxpayers was due to the manufacture of mere rubbish was indicated by a concealed accumulation of some 786,390 worthless books and pamphlets stored in the south wing of the capitol building.

"It now appears that the governor's vigorous statement as to this state printing rat-hole led to the immediate (though unostentatious) removal from the basement of some 20,000 copies of superfluous truck printed at the instance of the dairy and food commission.

"The investigating committee did a remarkably good job in unearthing this particular proceeding as a clear example of the general extravagance of the so-called 'progressive' regime and a practical admission of it in the hurried removal of evidence.

"And what, one would like to know, about the extra fire risk for our expensive capitol building involved in making its basement a junk-shop for the storage of tons of waste paper?

"Get the lid off this whole complicated mess of extravagance and mismanagement at the state capital, gentlemen of the committee, and the state will rise up and call you blessed!

"That forthcoming report will make some mighty interesting reading for the people of Wisconsin if the committee does its work thoroughly and bewares of the pitfall of employing agents pecuniarily or politically interested in covering up abuses; and we guess it will."

It would indicate that the volunteers in the army of Spring, are anxious for a trial attack upon the conscripts of General Winter. Spring fell back upon its reserves into a position previously selected some days ago, and the forces of Winter have occupied the old campaign ground, and although somewhat weakened are still in control of the situation. However, we may expect an engagement at any time.

With two vacancies on the board of directors of the Park Association it has been suggested that they be filled by selecting men in close touch with the agricultural and animal husbandry interests of the county. This was the idea advanced at the annual meeting of the directors when the old board was re-elected unanimously for the sake of harmony.

Russia is fighting with all its vast machinery along its border line against both German and Austrian foes. Reports from the battle lines indicate that the White Czar's soldiers are waging the fight of their lives and that Germany and Austria are also fighting with a desperation that makes the warfare on the western front really secondary.

The idea of consolidation of the various allied interests of state government into units instead of conflicting commissions and boards, is meeting with popular favor among legislators assembled in Madison, and such a bill may be expected to appear almost any time now.

President Wilson may be able to force his ship purchase bill through the senate, but he will find great difficulty in doing so if present indications are any criterion of what is to be expected when the final vote comes.

DANCERS WILL GIVE AID TO THE TEUTON HOSPITALS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Philadelphia, Feb. 11—Many prominent persons affiliated with German and Austrian relief societies will attend the ball of the German-Austrian relief Association here tonight. The proceeds will be used to purchase ambulances and other needed medical supplies for German and Austrian hospitals abroad.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied In Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Freedom's Call.

Erasmus Binks spent many years behind the prison bars,
He grew most mighty tired of the brand of prison fare
And wished to get back home where he could breathe the open air.
Full many thoughts of by-gone days went coursing through his mind
And he thought of the patient wife whom he had left behind.
He yearned for freedom constantly
all through the night and day,
Until he got his courage up and then he stole away.

"Ah, ha! I'm free at last," he cried as he approached his home.
"Right here I'll stick in quietude and never more will roam."
You see he'd been away so long he hadn't heard the news,
His wife had joined the suffragets and had absorbed their views.
The freedom he had hankered for turned out to be but dross,
The patient wife that once he'd known was an exacting boss.
In dead of night he tramped away,
his heart bowed down in pain,
He hiked back to the same old jail and broke right in again.

Little Household Infelicities.

"On the square, Mag, I'd just about as soon eat toothpicks as these here shoe-string potaters of yours."

"Rupert, I'll tell you about sixteen times more to stop hanging your hat on the corner of that picture in the parlor and then I'll go home to mother."

"Who filled my whiskey decanter with vinegar? What do you want to do, collect my life insurance?"

"Another new hat, and you had one in December that cost $18. I can wear a $3 hat for three years. No wonder the young men are afraid of the cars now-adays when it comes to getting married."

A Complaint.

A well-known specialist has received the following letter:

"Dear Sir: Sumtime ago I came by your office once and told you that my wife was not so well like she might have been she was week and not able to do washing and ironing like she used to and perhaps you can remember what I sayed to you. You gave me some medicin to qure her weakness and after she took it two weeks she got up out of bed and hit me over the hed with a bed slat and nocked me nonsensikle. She said she was glad to be week so she could stay in bed awhile. Yure medicin made her so strong she drags me around by the colar of the coat and makes me do the washing and ironing and stands over me with the bed slat and hands me a biff when I try to quit. I ain't had no chance to go fishing sints she took yure medisin. She is so strong she don't do no work at all, but makes me do it.

"I just rite to tell you that yure medisin ain't no good and you are a fakir. I just wanted you to make her so she could work and not so she could lick me. Next time I will go somewhere else. You ought to be docktering horses. Yours truly,

"ANGUS HOSTETTER."

Spring.
(A scoop.)

It's months too early yet to sing
Anent the joys of luscious spring.
Spring poems are chestnuts, we fear,
But we must grind one out each year.
It's in our contract with the folks
Who pay us for our little jokes.

So here it is, our springtime ode.
Do not blame us. It's in the code.
We want to scoop all other guys
Who grind out columns, pert or wise,
With this spring bunk, first of its kind,
And get the blamed thing off our mind.

Uncle Abner.

Hank Tumms has got his youngest educated in new thought. When there is no milk in the house at night he hands the baby a milk ticket and the kid is apparently satisfied.

Burglars got a big haul in our town the other night. They cracked the safe in Tibbitts' general store and got away with two pounds of creamery butter. They was evidently professionals.

It looks as though the amusement parks would have to go back to the old cane racks and shootin' galleries to work up excitement.

I have often' wondered what the present generation would do if it had to turn back a hundred years. Probably it would do as well as that generation did and maybe better. You never kin tell.

TURKS OBTAIN CATS FOR PROTECTION ON GRAINS

Cairo, Feb. 11.—The Turkish authorities have issued orders for the commandeering of several hundred cats in Syria. They are needed to protect the vast stores of grain and provisions in the military depots from the incursions of mice and rats.

WINTER DOUBLES WORK.

In summer the work of eliminating poisons and acids from the blood is helped by perspiration. In cold weather, with little out door work or exercise to cause sweating, the kidneys have to do double work. Foley Kidney Pills help overworked, weak and diseased kidneys to filter and cast out of the blood the waste matter that causes pains in sides or back, rheumatism, lumbago, stiffness of joints, sore muscles and other ills resulting from improper elimination.—W. PRISON TWINE FACTORY OPERATED AT A PROFIT.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—Prison-made binder twine is profitable in Wisconsin, according to Ralph E. Smith, president of the state board of control.

Smith says that in the 21 months of operation last year, the binder twine plant showed a profit of $53,000. Allowing for depreciation and interest, the profit was about $9,000. Twin was sold by the state at ¾ to 2 cents under what was asked by private manufacturers.

The board and "keep" of a prisoner costs the state about 42 cents a day, while the state got 65 cents a day from his labor under the knitting contract. Prisoners earned between $18,000 and $20,000 for overtime work.

The board wants $44,900 this year and $31,000 next year for a new cell wing. The estimated disbursements of the state penal and charitable institutions for 1915-'16 total $2,871,817 while for 1916-'17 the estimate is $2,605,326.

MILLIONAIRE SAYS HE STOLE WATERMELONS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 11.—Nathan Straus, New York millionaire, who is spending the winter here, says he stole melons when he was a boy in Georgia.

"An old dealer named Collingsworth," said Straus, used to sell watermelons. He'd drive up to the school and we'd all gather 'round and thump the melons. Finally we'd pick out the best one, and some boy 'ud hand him a dime with a rubber tied to it, and it would slip out of Collingsworth's fingers.

"For a little bit he'd look around,

So Said The Abused Stomach--

"There it goes again. Just look at this installment that fellow has sent down for us to work up.

"If this isn't the limit. Regular lumps and chunks. What are teeth for if a man won't use them? And then this stuff is fairly poisoned with germs.

If he doesn't chew his food and get those rotten teeth put in order, I'm going on a strike and that will make him sit up and take notice."

Moral—"You can abuse a patient stomach about so long and then you will hear something drop."

INVESTIGATE MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF LUMBERMAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marinette, Feb. 11.—Henry Picotte, 40, woodman, of Walsh, this county, was found dead in the woods near Onomogan, Michigan, yesterday. There was a bullet wound in the back of his head. He carried a rifle, but the location of the wound made it impossible for him to have killed himself accidentally. The supposition is that he was hit by a stray bullet by some hunter's rifle, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental suicide. The Michigan authorities are investigating the mysterious death, as some circumstances indicate murder.

PURCHASE AGREEMENT IS REACHED BY CITY WITH WATER COMPANY

TERMS UNDER WHICH PLANT WILL BE TAKEN OVER ON APRIL 1ST, HAVE BEEN ACCEPTED.

WILL TAKE OVER BONDS

City Will Assume Outstanding Bonds of $186,500, and Pay Balance in Cash.—Bondholders' Suit Dismissed.

All legal difficulties in the way of city ownership of the Janesville water plant have finally been adjusted, the terms of the purchase agreed upon by the city and the water company, and arrangements perfected according to which the city will take possession of the property on April 1st, 1915.

Conferences between the officers of the company and city officials held during the last few days have been successful in bringing about an understanding as to terms, and as a result of which the action of the bondholders of the water company in the United States court at Madison will be dropped.

The city will settled with the water company upon the basis of $265,000, the price fixed by the state railroad commission, by assuming the outstanding bonds amounting to $186,500 and by paying the owners of the plant $78,500 in cash. Instead of raising a municipal bond issue of $265,000 it will now be necessary to raise but about $80,000.

It is understood that the water company intends to appeal from the decision of the commission on the amount of the award. This appeal, if taken, will be heard before the circuit court of Dane county and will involve only the question of the purchase price, the company contending that $265,000 is an insufficient figure. If the court should increase the finding of the commission, the city will have to pay such sum in addition to the $265,000.

The contention in the bondholders' action was to the effect that the public utility law could not affect a mortgage given prior to its passage and further that the railroad commission had no authority to grant an indeterminate permit where the utility had mortgaged its franchise. The trust deed in question was made in January, 1907, while the public utility law was not passed until July, 1907.

With this present adjustment, however, all legal conditions are waived and nothing now remains as the subject of litigation, except the amount of the purchase price.

No detailed plans have been made by the council as to management, but the water department will be operated in the city hall, and the plant will be conducted as a separate business proposition and not mixed up with general city revenues. This ends one of the longest drawn out and complicated legal controversies in which the city has ever been interested.

The state railroad commission has been consulted and has approved of the terms of the purchase agreement.

VALLEY OF MEUSE A SCENE OF CONFLICT

Famous Battleground for Over Two Centuries of Warfare.

The valley of the Meuse river, extending through France, Belgium and Holland, up and down whose course two thousand years of intermittent warfare has been waged, forms the subject of a statement given out today by the National Geographic society:

"Above every other valley, that of the Meuse has become a battlefield. At Leige, on the Meuse, the first great battle of the war broke forth, and the struggle blazed and seared along the picturesque splendor of this wild, rugged-banked stream, directly southward through Belgium into France. According to the day by day dispatches, some of the most fierce efforts are still raging on its banks. Liege, Namur, Dinant, Givet, Sedan, Stenay, Verdun and St. Mihiel—each name recently become familiar to Americans—all lie along its course.

"Three countries share the Meuse. It rises in France, flows northward through Belgium, crosses the Dutch frontier, sweeps westward through Holland, and empties into the North Sea. Its journey to the sea is one of 580 miles, of which 480 are navigable. Its source is in the south of the French department Haute Marne near the Monte Faucilles, whence it crosses the Departments Vosges, Meuse, Ardennes into Belgium near Sedan, northward into Holland near Maastrich, and thence westward to the sea. It bears several names along its course—Meuse, Maes, Maas, Mersede.

"The valley of the Meuse for ages has been a channel for the ebb and flow of armies. It might be said to drain one vast, historic battlefield. Caesar pursued its path into the unknown, barbaric North. The wild Teutonic tribes pressed down between its banks toward the wealth of Rome. Christian Europe has been settling its differences along the valley of the Meuse by force of arms down to the present day.

"In the Forest of Ardennes, the Meuse flows through a country rich in romances of Charlemange. Vinelands and hop-gardens lie further along its banks, and then it washes great industrial cities, gathering to itself the ashes, rust and acids of factory and furnace waste. Finally, it drifts through the flatlands of Holland, supplying the numerous canals which hazily divide the plains. Here and there, as between Namur and Liege, it cuts a narrow passage between wooded hills and cliffs, their difficult sides dotted with pretty villas. Just before reaching the sea, the Meuse, here the Maas, divides, on branch flowing west, and the other mingling with the Rhine to empty past Rotterdam at the Hook of Holland.

"In the beginning of its course, the valley of the Meuse is a wide meadowland. It then breaks itself a gorge, fringed with broken, tangled banks. There is a wealth of scenic beauty along its way. Chateaux, castle, cottages and farmsteads sprinkle the valley, though far more thickly than these evidences of the living are clustered the place-names rescued from forgetfulness by legends and historic records. The camp of the Aduatuci described by Caesar is marked by a citadel on a hill between this river and the Sambre, its largest tributary. At Dinant, Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, is said to have caused 800 people to be drowned in its waters. But the river has long since forgotten the good Duke's sprightly slaughter in a present time more stirring, more titanic and far more costly in human life."

TEN IN ACCIDENT ON SPEEDING BOB ON FOURTH AVENUE

Coasting Mishap Occurs at Bridge When Steerer Looses Momentary Control of Sled

Earl H. Winters was severely injured and nine others of a bobload of ten young people badly shaken up and bruised more or less when the swiftly moving sled upon which they were riding crashed into the wide steel beam on the bridge at the bottom of the Fourth avenue hill shortly before ten o'clock last evening.

The injured:

Earl H. Winters, 513 Hickory street, head and face badly lacerated. Unconscious throughout night.

Mrs. Earl H. Winters, minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Howard Dewey, 446 Bluff street. Left foot and ankle injured. Foot bones may be broken. Knee bruised.

Howard Dewey, Minor bruises.

Miss Adelf Rogers, bad shaking up but no serious injuries.

Misses Mae and Anna Keating, 221 Glen street, minor bruises.

William, John and George Keating, minor lacerations and bruises.

Winters, the worse injured, lies today at his home in a precarious condition. He was thrown against the heavy cement block and suffered injuries to his head. He has a bad cut over one eye and has also a large number of lesser lacerations about the head and face.

Winters and the other young men were alternating at steering the bobload of ten people. They had been on the hill for over an hour and with other coasters were having much amusement. On the trip which ended in the mishap Winters was steering.

From what could be learned today from the members of the party he either evidently lost momentary control when Main street was reached or something happened which threw the long sled out of its course. Just as the railroad tracks were passed the bob slewed and mounting the approach near the dam side, crashed into the steel balustrade plate. The light standard base of cement stands about two feet back and slightly to the left of this. The impact of the front sled into the upright steel, threw Winters forward against the standard base and striking the sharp hard edges, his face and head being badly cut.

The other members of the party were thrown forward in every direction. Mrs. Dewey's foot was injured and today it is not known whether or not any bones are broken. Mr. Dewey, although slightly bruised, was able to work today.

Miss Rogers was not injured aside from a few bruises. This was true of Mae and Anna, and Will, John and George Keating, although all were badly shaken when thrown forward.

The bob was smashed to splinters. The impact completely demolished the front sled and destroyed the long board which connected the two sleds.

The hill has been covered with ice for nearly the whole of the winter season and great speed is possible with a heavy load on bobs. The hill is of such an incline that a rate of forty-five miles an hour is a common occurrance under present conditions.

Aside from the dangerous speed at which sleds travel there are also many chances taken from vehicles on the cross streets. Sometimes the coasters have watchers at the corners to give warning of approaching rigs and automobiles but in the majority of cases the streets are left unguarded.

A short while ago a Fifth ward youngster suffered a compound fracture on the ankle on this hill when a bobload coming down the incline crashed into him as he was returning to the top following a slide down.

SPRING FLOOD CAUSES STREET MEN TROUBLE

Commissioner Goodman Had Large Gang of Men Opening Gutter Intakes to Care for Flood Waters.

Employes of the street department today waged a hard fight against the flood waters that threatened to spread over the streets and walks throughout the city. The start obtained Tuesday in cleaning of the sewer intakes through the use of steam traction engines had aided the work of checking the rush of water, which sweeps down the gutters in immense volumes. Where the crosswalk gutter plates have been clogged the water submerged the walks and covered the street intersections, causing considerable trouble.

On Chatham street several of the crossings were flooded to a depth of a foot and men were put to work opening up the sewer connections. On North Bluff street the clogging of the gutter work and the ineffectiveness of the open ditch on "Goose Alley" caused the water to back down the street for several blocks. Tht engine was used there this morning to furnish an outlet to the water and clear the ditch down to the river. The commission are seeking the right to construct a concrete sewer under the railroad embankment which would remedy the drainage evils in this district, but no agreement has yet been made with the railroad companies. As most of the water comes off their right-of-way, it is hoped that satisfactory plans can be made this summer for a drain sewer which will carry off all the water of this district direct to the river. When the river is as high as now, the ditch off Glenn street is on a lower level, and consequently the water is forced back down the street.

On Jackson street, across the tracks, an other bad water hole is experienced, for the water from the tracks accumulates at the crossing and the drains become clogged at regular intervals. On North Franklin street the water goes down an open ditch into a boxed down spout and then on the street. Connections with the proposed sewer on North River street is advocated to care for this water.

The urgent need of an ordinance to have the telephone poles eliminated on the main streets is emphasized during the present thaw, for the poles have forced the water from the gutters onto the streets, where it collects in pools on the car tracks.

By opening drains from the sidewalks to the gutters, the property owners can have their sidewalks kept in better condition. Much of the snow and ice has been removed during the day and conditions could be improved greatly by this method.

Easy Pin Money.

Clean wiping cloths, buttons and hooks off, will bring 3½c per pound cash at the Gazette office.

Circle No. 8 of the Cargill M. E. church will meet with Mrs. J. D. Owen, 23 North Franklin street, Friday afternoon at 2:30.

MILLER HAS HEARING ON BURGLARY CHARGE

State Has Strong Evidence Against Alleged Robber of McCue Flat—Decision on Friday.

Strong evidence was introduced by District Attorney Dunwiddie for the state in the preliminary hearing of Fred Miller, charged with burglary during the night time, in municipal court this morning. Judge Maxfield deferred his decision on the petition of Attorney Dunwiddie to hold Miller for trial until tomorrow morning.

In the hearing this morning Miller was represented by Attorney John Cunningham. Testimony was given by J. W. McCue to the effect that the stolen watch, and money amounting to $14.73 found on Miller by the police, were his property that was stolen while he was asleep at his home on North High street. The paper money was identified as being of the same denomination. One convincing point was that a Canadian half dollar—a pocket-piece—was listed among the money. Mrs. J. W. McCue testified to finding the clothes of her husband in the bath room of the flat on her return after eleven o'clock, and that all the electric light switches and bulbs had been loosened so that the lights could not be turned on. It was proven that a small electric light globe that was found on Miller was similar to the one removed from the socket in the bath room. This evidence appears to be the strongest point that the state has to prove Miller guilty. The theft of the silverware was also reviewed.

Patrolman Fred Albright testified as to the arrest of Miller at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station shortly after the robbery, and told of finding the stolen watch and the money on his person, the watch being found hidden in his shirt attached to a string which held an encased razor. Policeman Charles Dickinson verified Albright's testimony. Positive proof that the watch was McCue's was made through the testimony of Albright, who looked the watch number up at the jewelry store where the timepiece was bought.

William Barry, arrested the same night, before the robbery, told of being a companion of Miller's on the way from Racine where they met. Barry stated that they were in Evansville for four days, during which time they shoveled coal for Mr. Williams and received four dollars apiece for their labors. When the two left Evansville they had but three dollars and a small amount of change, according to the witness. Barry stated he was with Miller at the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul station until 10:30 o'clock the night of the robbery when Miller left him.

Cal. Broughton, city marshal at Evansville, closed the testimony of the state with the evidence that the two men were in that city on the dates given in their testimony.

No attempt was made to question regarding the hiding place of the silverware, which it is alleged Miller stole, as he was not placed on the stand, the hearing being but a proceduce to prove there is sufficient evidence to hold him for a jury trial. Miller was committed to the county jail again and Barry will be held as a witness. There was a large gallery present to hear the testimony.

Chief Champion has been unable to gain any trace of the silverware. Some suspicion is directed toward Barry, but so far he has denied knowledge of the valuables. On Miller two key-picks were found which will be introduced as evidence in the trial by the state.

At two this afternoon, was brought into court and held for trial, the date being set for February 16. His bail was allowed to remain at $800.

TAXPAYERS PROTEST OILING ASSESSMENT

Property Owners Seek Refund From City of Evansville in Action in Circuit Court.

Taxpayers in the city of Evansville contend that assessments for oiling of the streets in 1913 were illegally made and seek to secure a refund of their money amounting in all to $3,318.48 in an action brought by H. E. Pease, as a property owner, against the city of Evansville, in the circuit court, Judge Grimm heard testimony in the case this afternoon. The plaintiff claims that there was no petition for oiling presented to the city council which ordered the work done upon its own initiative. The claim is also made that the Evansville streets are not improved highways and are therefore not subject to the oiling treatment according to the state law on the subject. The assessments have all been paid and the action is brought to secure a refund of the money to the taxpayers. Lester C. Manson of Milwaukee was plaintiff's attorney and City Attorney R. M. Richmond assisted by O. A. Oestreich and Avery, had the case of the defendant.

ALLEGED HOLD-UP OF EDGERTON MAN LEADS TO SUSPECT'S ARREST

Police Investigating Charges of Alleged Robbery of Sum of Money From Daniel Brown Last Evening.

Daniel Brown, an Edgerton saloon proprietor, who came to Janesville Wednesday on business, was picked up by the police shortly after eight-thirty last evening on Mineral Point avenue, between Jackson and Franklin streets, in response to a telephone call to the police station that a man was lying unconscious on the walk.

At the station he was identified as Brown, but a search of clothing and belongings revealed no money. Friends of Brown who arrived at the station told Chief Champion that Brown always carried considerable money, that he had been drinking and they wished him cared for. Brown was in such a condition last evening that he could give the police but little assistance beyond stating that when he came to Janesville he had $135 and had collected $4 in witness fees, and had been drinking in various saloons about the city.

Later the police received information that Brown had been seen in company with three local youths going up North Franklin street earlier in the evening. From the description given, Captain Patrick Fanning went to the home of Roy McKinney, on South Main street, at one o'clock this morning and placed him under arrest. McKinney was still stupefied from drink when taken to the city hall, and denied all knowledge of the affair.

This morning, however, on close questioning, he admitted that he had been in Brown's company, had escorted him to the place where he was found, in company with two other men whom he did not know. That they had taken Brown to the place where he was found so he would escape falling into the police's hands, and that he had brought planks from a near by lumber yard to place under the man so he would not get wet.

He gave a description of one of the men who was with himself and Brown, and the police took Frank Sager into custody. McKinney identified Sager as the man when brought to the police station, and alleged that when he went to the lumber yard to get planks he left Sager and the other man by Brown's side, and that when he came back he accused Sager of taking Brown's money, and also that Sager placed Brown's keys back in his pocket and struck him, McKinney, when he accused him of the theft.

Sager denied the charge, but was not questioned. He admitted having been with Brown in company with others in the Bergdoll saloon, on Franklin street. Neither McKinney or Sager had any money on their persons when searched by the police. Brown stated to the police today he had lost the money, how much he was uncertain, but something over a hundred dollars, and the authorities are now searching for the third of the trio that escorted Brown to the place where he was found. One other suspect, who had been drinking with him, was taken to the police station but released after being questioned. While no warrants had been sworn out up to three o'clock, both the chief of police and district attorney were making a thorough investigation and both McKinney and Sager were being held for further questioning. It was learned that Brown made the rounds of the local saloons Wednesday, and that the last place he was known to have been in was the Bergdoll place on Franklin street, from which place he was taken to the place he was found some time later.

ATTACKS SHIP BILL IN BELOIT ADDRESS

A. J. Frame, Waukesha Banker, Urges Ship Subsidy As Method of Building Up Merchant Marine.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Beloit, Feb. 11.—Attacking the ship purchase bill now pending before the United States senate as socialistic in the extreme and urging a ship subsidy as the best method of building up a merchant marine in the United States, A. J. Frame, Waukesha banker, spoke last night before the Beloit Six O'clock Club on foreign banking, transportation and foreign trade of the United States, especially in South America. Mr. Frame declared that the present ship purchase bill was socialistic in its tendency and dangerous for that reason. He declared that in the ten-year period from 1847 to 1857 when Yankee Clippers carried one-fifth of the total world's tonage, the United States granted in subsidies $140,000,000 and that Great Britain, France and Germany have built up their great merchant marines by a system of ships subsidy. He also pointed out that the United States at present, carried only one-thirtieth of the world's tonnage and that until this country had at least established and directed trade routes with South America, American interests could not hope to compete with Europe in that region.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT.

Molly-the-little-stenographer-lady was worrying about a piece of work which was coming into the office the next week. It isn't like Molly to worry, but there had been sickness in her home. She had lost much sleep, and with it, as most of us do, her sense of proportion.

The Lady-who-always-knows-somehow looked up from her knitting—socks for the Belgians, of course—and smiled at Molly.

"It's the middle of the night, isn't it, my dear?" she said.

Molly drew the little stool on which she was sitting before the fire closer to the Lady's chair.

"That means something, doesn't it, Big Sister? Tell me what."

The Story of "A Very Special Visit."

"Yes," said the Lady, "it does. You see, once upon a time when I was a girl like you I was going away for a very special visit in a special new gown and hat. In the middle of the night before I was to go I waked up and the wind was blowing a gale and it was snowing very hard. It was early in March, I remember. I sat right up in bed ready to burst into tears. Perhaps I couldn't go tomorrow. Our horse had been a little lame the night before and he might be worse. I had meant to walk but I knew mother wouldn't let me walk through the snow drifts. Then, likely as not, the snow would stop the trains. And my new gown! I surely wouldn't be allowed to wear that. I lay awake at least two hours, planning and worrying and fretting. I had made up my mind that I would simply defy mother and walk to the station if the horse couldn't go, and that I would carry my new gown in a box and get the station master's wife to let me put it on at her house, when I finally fell asleep.

"I suppose you can guess the rest. When I woke up the sun was shining and there wasn't a bit of snow on the ground. It was a beautiful day and you could smell spring in the air. Dobbin's foot was better and I wore my new gown and rode to the station in state."

The Lady dropped her knitting needles for a moment and sat smiling into the fire.

Wait Until the Morning.

"I know it doesn't sound like very much," she said picking up her knitting again. "But it made a great impression on me. When I get to fretting over things that are coming in the future I remember that night and think to myself, 'Wait until the morning; leave your worries until then and you may not have any.'"

"I know, Big Sister," said Molly, "that's very sweet, but troubles don't always go away in the morning. Sometimes it's still snowing."

"Yes," admitted the Lady, "I know that. But even if it is, things are easier to deal with in the morning. They never seem so appalling as in the middle of the night. You are tired and downhearted now. It's time middle of the night, and everything looks blacker than it really is. Wait until morning, Little Sister, and perhaps it won't be so bad after all. And anyway I'm sure it won't seem so bad."

Molly turned to seize the gentle hand that was stroking her hair, in both of hers. "Of course it won't, Big Sister," she said. "In fact, I think it's stopped snowing already."

Glimpses of Married Life

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Mother, I stopped on the way home from Ann Arbor and saw Marie," said Stanley Forbush, seating himself on the radiator by the window in his mother's room.

Mrs. Forbush stopped in the act of spreading up a sheet to look at him, but he was looking down at his shoes and inquisitively following the design of the carpet with his cane.

"Well?" came encouragingly.

"I told her, mother."

"Told her what?" asked his mother in a startled tone.

"That I loved her; asked her to be my wife," answered the youth.

Mrs. Forbush sat down on the edge of the bed and her trembling lips refused to speak.

"Aren't you glad, mother?"

"Certainly, Stanley; but, oh, my boy, you are such children, both of you, and it means war, you know. Her mother is determined that Marie shall marry money."

"Yes, I know, and I am ready for battle," he said defiantly.

"What did Marie say?"

"She said nothing definite, but I am sure of her. Mother, you don't seem glad. I thought this news would make you especially happy." He slipped his arm around his mother's waist.

"Stanley, dear, if it had only come two or three years later I would have been very happy; but you have nothing; you are only a boy. I don't believe in taking a plunge like this till you have something back of you," said his mother earnestly.

"Now, mother, dear, don't give a preachment in this happiest time of my life. I have a good position for a fellow just out of school. Marie has three more years of college and by the time she graduates I shall be ready to claim her."

The pleasant vacation days slipped by. The young folks, by dint of great strategy, saw each other often, but Marie's mother had no notion of having her plans for her pretty daughter upset by any "poverty-stricken youngster" like Stanley Forbush. Marie had to listen to fierce tirades against him almost daily, and her younger brother was set to watch her movements and report on them. He came unexpectedly upon the lovers in the arbor the evening before her departure for school, and in the scene that followed the frightened child was made to promise to have nothing whatever to do with Stanley in the future. Young Forbush sent flowers and rained letters upon her, but no answer came. Finally the girl nerved herself and wrote to her father, directing the letter to the office to keep it out of her mother's hands. The letter read:

"Dear Father: I want to be released from my promise not to write to Stanley. I was frightened when I made it and I cannot keep my word. You gave no real reason except that we are young. All we want now is a chance to correspond. By the time we are old enough to marry we shall have found out our mistake, if it is one."

No answer came to the letter, but the girl felt that she had done her part in notifying her father, and the young folks corresponded during the next two years. Stanley secured a better position in an eastern city and he and his mother moved from the village.

In the spring vacation before her graduation, Marie visited the Forbushes, and in the peace and quiet of the pretty home she felt she could face the gale that was coming, when her approaching marriage was announced.

"I feel that we must get the thing safely over before commencement or they may whisk you away from me for good," said Stanley; so he wrote soon after to her father, telling of his business prospects and his desire to marry Marie shortly after her graduation. A prompt reply informed him that the matter was not to be thought of; that they had other plans for their daughter.

Stanley appeared in the parlor of the girls' dormitory the afternoon following the arrival of this letter and Marie came in pale and trembling with two letters in her hand.

"They are so terrible," she whispered, handing them to him to read.

"Child, you are trembling from head to foot. They do not love you or they could not tyrannize over you this way," he said, holding the cold little hand. "Let's end the whole horrible mess by going into the city this afternoon and getting married. I will bring you back here and write to your father what we have done. If they make it too unpleasant for you, come right home to us."

"I'll do what you want me to do," she said, raising her blue eyes to his.

"Get permission for this afternoon, then. We will be back by six," and he released her to make hurried preparations for the trip. And so they were married.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is there any simple remedy for a shiny nose with the exception of powder?

(2) Please advise me how to get rid of pimples and blackheads.

(3) Will freckles come back if a freckle cream is not used constantly?

(4) After a man has said thank you after you have given him a dance should you answer; if so, what would be proper, or would a nod of the head answer?

(5) Would a thin light blue dress answer for dancing school?

(6) Is it more proper to put the hair up, or in a braid at public dance for a girl of 16 years of age?

BLUE EYES.

(1) Lotions containing zinc oxide or calamine should be dabbed on and allowed to remain on the face for half an hour. If necessary they may be repeated during the day. Tinct. benzoin, 5 drops; zinc oxide, ½ dr.; glycerine, 1½ dr.; lime water 1 oz.

(2) To cure blackheads make an ointment of one ounce of soap liniment and one ounce of ether, mix. At night scrub the face with hot water, using a complexion or other soft brush. After wiping, apply the mixture to each of the spots and let it remain on over night.

For pimples make an ointment of two grains of bera napthal, twenty grains of sulphur precipitate and twenty grains of potash soap. Rub over the pimples at night.

(3) Use the cream in sunny weather.

(4) A nod is enough. Try to show the man while you are together between dances that you have enjoyed his company.

(5) Yes.

(6) Do your hair up.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl and have a good common school education. I have had a steady position since I graduated and receive a very good salary, but I'm desirous of obtaining a higher position. I have received circulars from schools teaching dictophonography, stenography and bookkeeping. Which would you advise as the most called for and the one which pays the largest salary? C. I. D.

If possible, I should learn all three, my dear. Then you will stand three times as good a chance to get a position and could choose the most remunerative one. All are taught at business college. The pay in every case would depend on the amount of work to be done.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are two girls of sixteen and we have two friends who call occasionally, but our folks object to their staying late and they have very far to come. What can we do?

(2) Where could we go to learn stenography without taking a course in business college?

TWO BROWNIES.

(1) My dear girls, I am glad you have such sensible parents. The friends should not stay late, even if they do have far to come. Just enjoy them when they do come and give them such a good time that they will call again.

(2) Stenography cannot be learned by correspondence. The only satisfactory way is to take a course in business college.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of nineteen and have been keeping steady company with a young man for three months. We have been true to each other, but the last two times I was with him he wanted to make dates with other fellows for me. I objected. He asked why. I told him I didn't waot him to get sore at me. He said, "Well, that's all right. I'll get someone else." Do you think he doesn't want to go with me any more?

LILY OF THE VALLEY.

I should certainly have plenty of other company. It is often the case that young people tire of each other and enjoy a change, and why should they not have it? Young people are keeping company for a good time in most cases. They are often too young to think of marriage and a circle of friends gives the best chance for enjoyment.

COSTUME PARTY HELD BY SUNFLOWER CLUB

Over Hundred Couples Attend Party Given at East Side Odd Fellows' Hall Last Evening.

There were convicts, sailors, soldiers, small town "Hicks," hebrews, chefs, Red Cross nurses, sunflower girls and clowns represented at the dance given by the Sunflower club at the East Side Odd Fellow hall last evening. The event marked the final party of a series of dances of the club, in which all the modern dances were shunned and neglected for the favorite waltzes and two steps. There were well over a hundred couples present last evening at the costume party and with Hatch's orchestra furnishing the inspiration, the affair was the most successful that has been held by the club.

Shortly after ten the grand march was held and each of the guests were presented with a sunflower as a token from the club. While no prizes were given for the costumes, the various gowns were the best that have been seen at such a party in some time. The dance was in the hands of the committee composed of J. F. Newman, Charles R. Wright, Fred N. Blakely, W. H. Wright, Edward Hemming and Otto E. Smith.

MILWAUKEE MAY REDUCE MEN ON SCHOOL BOARD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 11.—Milwaukee may fall in line with many other large cities of the country and reduce the size of its board of education. Several city officials have expressed the belief that the present board is too unwieldy.

Dr. Henry L. Banzhaff, president of the board, has taken up the matter with the legislative committee, which will investigate conditions in cities which already have adopted the small board system.

The plan suggested by Dr. Banzhaff would supplant the present board of 15 members with one of five. At the initial election, one director would be selected for a term of five years, another for four, one for three, etc. In each succeeding year a director would be elected for the full term of five years.

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

BY ALICE CREW GALT

MOTHER MCGREW AND DANIEL DONKEY.

I wonder if you know what eavesdropping is;
It isn't a nice thing to do.
It's listening at windows and doorways to hear
The things that are not meant for you.

Now young Daniel Donkey had this dreadful fault,
He always would try to find out
Whenever he saw people standing around,
Just what they were talking about.

And Mother McGrew often said to him, "Dan,
As sure as I'm living some day
You're bound to hear unpleasant things of yourself
If you listen to all that folks say."

But that made no difference to Daniel at all;
Whenever a door was shut tight,
He'd put his ear up against the key hole,
And listen with all of his might.

And Mother McGrew, when she finally saw
That all of her scolding was vain,
Said, "I'll have to take severe measures to cure
Young Dan of eavesdropping, that's plain."

So next time she caught him listening at doors
She ran up behind him, right quick,
And before Daniel Donkey could even turn round,
She tapped him three times with her stick.

"Now then, Daniel Donkey, I've cured you I hope;
I've made both your ears very long.
So that, in the future you will not forget
That evesdropping always is wrong."

And right to this day Donktys all have long ears,
Of which they're ashamed, I've no doubt;
So let us be careful as careful can be,
And not go eavesdropping about.

Household Hints

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES.

Salsify Chowder—Fry two pieces salt pork until brown, then fry small sliced onion in the grease. Remove both pork and onion when brown, and add to grease two large cups sliced salsify, two cups corn, one stalk celery chopped, a little green pepper chopped, two sliced potatoes, one teacup stewed tomatoes in which a tiny pinch of soda has been dissolved. Add two quarts water and the chowder, cook until all vegetables are very soft. Season with salt, pepper, butter and thick cream.

Casscrole of Rice and Meat—One cup rice, two cups chopped meat, one-fourth cup bread crumbs, onion juice and salt. Boil rice till tender, drain, and line greased mold with it. Mix other ingredients, pack them into mold and cover with cooked rice. Tie a paper over top and steam forty-five minutes. Turn out of mold and serve with tomato sauce poured around it.

Pumpkin Johnnycake—One quart sweet milk, one cup pumpkin, two tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon salt, two-thirds cup corn meal, one-fourth cup flour, pinch of soda. Bake half hour in hot oven. When done should be very soft.

Old-Fashioned Indian Bread—In the evening boil one-half cup sweet milk and turn while boiling hot over one-third cup corn meal; set where it will keep real warm. If kept warm enough, will be light in the morning; if not, set cup in basin of warm water until it does get light. Then take quart bowl, fill about one-third full warm water, adding one-fourth teaspoon soda; add wheat flour to make thin batter. Add the "starter," which is light in the cup, cover and set where it will be warm. In about three-fourths hour will be nearly to top of bowl. This is called "emptyings." Now take two quarts of corn meal, add sufficient boiling water to scald well (don't get it too wet), add two tablespoons salt, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon soda, 1½ quarts wheat flour and, when slightly cool, so it will not scald, add the "emptyings" and mix well. Put in well-greased six-quart pan, cover and set where it will be warm. In about 1½ hours it will be ready to bake. Bake about two hours in hot oven. Will keep a week. Slice off same as any bread. Can be steamed if it gets too dry. Helps to reduce flour bill, now flour is so high.

Buttermilk Pancakes—Four cups of white flour, one quart of buttermilk, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, one tablespoon sugar. Mix all together and bake on hot griddle. They are just fine and cheap; cost about 12 cents in all and will feed a family of five.

TO KEEP SILVER BRIGHT

A simple and efficacious way of cleaning silver is this:

Make a solution of baking soda and salt, allowing a teacupful of each to a quart of water. Put this in an aluminum pan or kettle and when it boils drop the silver in for an instant only.

Have another pan of hot water handy for rinsing purposes; rinse the silver in this and wipe dry.

No further polishing will be required and all tarnish and stains will have disappeared in the first bath.

This is quite as effective as the use of the cleaning pans for silver which are such a help in present-day housework.

Cheap Imitation Vanilla

What is commercial vanilla supposed to contain? We bought so-called "Artificial Extract, Vanilla," labelled "VaniHin .76%, Coumarin .195%, Alcohol 12.5%, Syrup 12.5%, Caramel .195%, Water 73.83%. Please tell me what you think of this.

M. J. S.

Vanilla extract should contain the extractive butter from the Vanilla bean. This is usually accomplished by allowing the finely chopped bean to stand in a weak lacoholic solution for a sufficient length of time. To the clear extract is sometimes added a small quantity of sugar, or even glycerine. There is no artificial coloring matter or flavor added.

We do not think highly of the formula you submit, inasmuch as it is an imitation of compound vanilla. It is not true vanilla in any sense, but is a cheap makeshift.

Natural Color.

Is the bright red color so noticeable ready prepared tomato soup natural? I have tried making my own cream of tomato soup and have also bought it in ten-cent cans. Have you ever analyzed the canned soups, and, if so, what do they contain?

Mrs. E. McC.

We know of no prepared or canned tomato that is artificially colored. The bright red color is due to perfected processes in manufacture. For one thing the soup is cooked under reduced atmospheric pressure at a lower temperature than is possible in the ordinary kitchen. This has a direct bearing upon the color of the finished product. Canned soups are free from all taint of chemical preservatives or artificial colors. They usually consist of suitable stock flavored with the various vegetables.

Buckwheat Cakes.

Do you consider buckwheat cakes hard to digest? Is there much nutriment in them? Mrs. P. L. A.

If buckwheat cakes are made of pure buckwheat flour with the addition of baking powder the process of baking takes only a few minutes and the starches in the flour undergo very little change. The cakes so made cannot be said to be as digestible as those made in the old-fashioned way. Buckwheat has a fuel value of about 1,600 calories per pound.

To Test Food Purity.

Will you please tell me what book to get that will give me the "Tests" as used by the Department of Agriculture to detect impurities in foods and drugs. Also where may I obtain copy of all the Food Inspection Decisions by the Department. Also what work on chemistry is best to consult on above subjects?

Revised Bulletin, No. 107, Bureau of Chemistry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. (price 20 cents), contains many of the official tests used by the Department chemist. Address Superintendent of Public Documents, Washington, D. C. For Food Inspection Decisions also address Superintendent of Public Documents.

The best all-round chemistry on food analysis is "Food Inspection and Analysis," by Albert Leach, published by John Wiley & Son, New York City.

Natural Minerals Needed.

Which is better for the teeth, digestion and general blood nourishment, fermented bread, or boiled cereals and flour paste? C. G.

Neither. This is a very difficult question to answer. Assuming first that the materials were all of equal quality and eaten with discretion there would be no great difference. On the other hand if your products are made from robbed or denatured food, that is, from cereal products whose natural mineral salts have been carefully removed by the manufacturer, an appreciable amount of nourishment is lost. We are not sure of the meaning of your phrase "flour pastes." If by this you mean distinct, sticky, unctuous mass, we venture to say that the nourishing properties would be in favor of bread or boiled cereals. If you refer, however, to the pastry, sometimes known as pastes, we do not believe there is any appreciable difference.

SOAP ON THE HAIR CAUSES DANDRUFF; SCALP GETS DRY, THEN HAIR FALLS OUT

GIRLS! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE AND TRY A "DANDERINE HAIR CLEANSE.

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

WHEAT ISSUE NOW A UNIVERSAL PROBLEM

STAFF OF LIFE IS TODAY LIMITED.—WAR RESPONSIBLE FOR PRODUCTION IN EUROPE.

EXPECT HIGH PRICES

Markets Continue to Advance, Although Volume of Speculative Transactions is Restricted.

What is to be the future of wheat in this country and in the world? In summing up conditions during the past several months, we find that the wheat problem is a world-wide issue, one that is attracting the attention of all civilized people. The continual advance of the markets, despite the restriction on the volume of speculative transactions, brings about a condition that will be difficult to mend for several months, and perhaps several years.

The whole world seems to be in a dislocated condition over the food question, and especially as far as grain is concerned. The staff of life has suffered calamities before, before the one facing the belligerent countries today is worse than ever before.

Starting with a world's wheat deficiency of no inconsiderable dimensions; with a war of staggering proportions and uncertain duration; with some twenty million men, the flower of Europe's manhood (one out of every three from the farm) under arms, if not actually in the field, and with some million horses (average life 20 days) mostly also from the farms on the battlefields—thus throwing them both from the sphere of production, and yet remaining in that of consumption, the question may well be asked "What is the outcome to be in its influence on prices." Every European government is attempting to "bluff" itself, the others, the world, into the belief that it holds supplies adequate to requirements. This data has been compiled by Renskarf, Lyon and company of New York City.

In studying the facts of each country stricken with the lack of supply in wheat, their motives and plans to limit themselves and the other nations, we find that the conditions already noticeable in the various countries are of a severe nature.

In England, prices are now ruling at the highest point in fifty years and the people are demanding legislation to stop any further advance in prices. England is making restrictions on India's shipping to other countries than the home ones. They have adopted a first mortgage on supplies remaining in Canada, and are continually reaching out for additional supplies from this country and Argentina.

Conditions in other countries are as follows:

France.

Conceding 5 months ago, that because of interference with harvesting, her crops would be seriously curtailed; now claiming (and expecting the world to believe) that the impairment amounts to only some 20 million bushels—and yet she continues in active competition in her purchases here.

Belgium.

A land of desolation—once most fertile—produced 15 million bushels in 1913 on only 400,000 acres, or 37 to the acre versus only 15 in the United States. Barley 50 bushels to the acre versus our 24. Potatoes 312 bushels versus our 90. Importations of wheat to January 1st only 2,200,000 versus 33,100,000 last year.

Germany.

Claiming ample supplies of all kinds, yet enacting drastic laws limiting use of wheat and rye flour—advising strict economy, and yet endeavoring to secure all possible supplies from Argentina, the bulk of which is said to be already owned by England and Italy. Planting potatoes in vacant lots in Berlin; killing her own cattle for meat; finally taking over by government of all stocks of food.

Austria-Hungary.

In no better condition than Germany—with area seeded small and weather bad; with Hungary open to invasion by the foe, and mobs clamoring for bread, and general dissastisfaction over war; and Budapesth supplies of wheat only one-tenth of usual requirements.

Italy.

Shaken by earthquakes—on the brink of war—recently parting with some of her supplies tempted by the high price; now reaching out for fresh supplies here and in Argentina demanding shipment before March 1st to secure which government commandeers bottoms flying Italian flag.

Russia.

Much of last crop left in fields rotting, at time of mobilization—cold and lack of snow covering for new crop—complaining of lack of horses —little chance of early opening of Dardanelles.

CORN STALK DISEASE RAVAGES NEBRASKA.

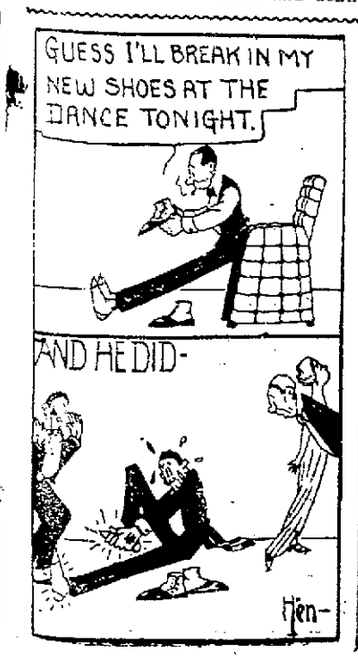

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 11.—The ravages of the corn stalk disease among horses this winter are the worst in the history of Nebraska, according to Dr. Charles M. Day, state field veterinarian, in a report today.

According to word received by the state veterinarian's department from one of its field men, over two hundred horses have died in one county alone as a result of the disease.

The animals affected with the disease first become affected with drowsiness and later become delirious. The disease is acute and death results within a few days. The attacks are in almost every instance fatal.

A substance in the corn stalk on which the animals feed causes the poisoning. An analysis by government experts at Washington resulted in the report that the poisonous substance is a species of mould.

A GENERAL MOVEMENT IN TOBACCO CIRCLES

Good Casing Weather, Receiving and Presence of Riders in Country Make Better Conditions.

Good casing weather has prevailed in the lower tobacco growing district since the last report. Incidentally a great portion of the crop which has been in the sheds has been placed in good condition. Growers in the city yesterday felt that with several more days of the present weather, practically the entire crop would be in bundles.

A more general buying movement presents itself this week and quite an influx of riders to the growing districts is noticed. With the present casing weather on, the opportunities of inquiring into the merits of the leaf predominate, and riders are reported busy. Sales of fair lots were reported yesterday at ten and eleven cents. Eleven acres are reported to have been released at this price.

While good weather favors casing and riders are once more in the growing districts, Janesville warehouses are beginning to become more and more scenes of busy sorting activities. Receiving during the week went on incessantly. Aside from crops purchased nearby, there were a number of carload lots received. Several of the latter came from the west of Janesville and early assorting is showing excellent grades. Purchases of the new crop seem to be in very good packing condition.

The yield in this section, according to a local grower, is quite satisfactory with 1,300 to 1,400 and 1,500 of binder grades to the acres with perhaps 18 percent or less of fillers out. In the north the growers report even less yields, often 1,100 pounds and less per acre.

Tobacco journals received report somewhat of a more general movement in cured leaf in eastern markets.

Shipments from the Janesville storage market since a week ago Monday totalled between two and three hundred cases.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Feb. 10.—Two hoboes, who were riding the blind baggage on Tuesday evening, were pinched by the village marshal and given a night's lodging in the jail.

Mrs. Roy Grenawalt left on Tuesday afternoon for a visit with her brother and other relatives at Portland, Oregon. She expects to be absent for several weeks.

The third number of the lecture course was given at the opera house on Tuesday evening. The entertainers were the Reginers, and the entertainment was greatly enjoyed by a capacity house.

Several from the village attended the Linderman sale, in the town of Newark, on Wednesday. There was a good attendance and good prices prevailed. Frank Coryell has purchased the farm and will move on to it in a short time.

A train bearing a company of railroad officials went through Orfordville on Wednesday morning, making a stop of about fifteen minutes in the village.

The remains of Neil Flaherty, who died suddenly in front of the Reeder Hotel on Tuesday, were conveyed to the Ryan undertaking rooms, in Janesville, on Wednesday morning.

MERCURY THE BRIGHT STAR FOR FEBRUARY

Can Be Found in Twilight Sky Over Southwest Horizon.—Venus Shines Brightest in the Morning Hours.

Mercury is an evening star in the early part of February and reaches greatest elongation east on February 5, according to astronomical data furnished by the Washburn observatory. The planet will be situated in the twilight sky over the southwestern horizon but at too low an altitude for the best observation. On February 1 Mercury may be most readily found by looking close to the bright planet Jupiter, a little north and west from the latter. On February 2 at about 1 a. m., Mercury will be in close conjunction with Jupiter passing the latter in eastward motion at a distance of a little over one-half a degree to the north. Jupiter is in conjunction with the sun February 23 and by the middle of March will reappear in the morning sky. Venus is the brilliant morning star in the southeastern sky. The planet will reach its greatest distance west from the sun on February 6. Mars also is rising over the southeastern horizon in the morning twilight, but is not high enough yet to be noticeable. Saturn is the one bright planet favorably situated for evening observation. It passes the meridian at a high altitude to the south of the zenith, in the middle or early part of the evening.

There will be an annular eclipse of the sun February 13, but it will be invisible in this part of the world. The path of central eclipse will begin in the Indian ocean south of Madagascar, cross the northwestern part of Australia and end in the western Pacific Ocean.

The time of sunrise and sunset for the month are as follows:

Sunrise—February 1 at 7:14; February 11 at 7:2; February 21 at 6:49; February 28 at 6:37.

Sunset—February 1 at 5:9; February 11 at 5:22; February 21 at 5:34; February 28 at 6:45.

The times of the moon's phases are:

Last quarter—On the 6th at 11:11 p. m.

New moon—On the 13th at 10:31 p. m.

First quarter—On the 21st at 8:58 p. m.

The principal fixed stars visible during the month are as follows:

To the west, Capella, Albebaran and the Pleiades; near the meridian, Sirius and the bright stars of the constellation Orion; to the east, Procyon, Regulus, Castor and Pollux.

FIFTY THOUSAND FED BY AMERICAN RELIEF

American Commission in Brussels Operate Largest "Bread Line" in the World for Destitute War Victims.

(Correspondence of the A. P.)

London, Feb. 11—The soup kitchen organized in Brussels by the American Commission for Relief is now undoubtedly the largest in the world. Nearly fifty thousand people entirely destitute wait in the "bread lines" every day and over six thousand gallons of soup and four thousand kilograms of bread are daily distributed to them.

"Unlike the bread lines I have seen in America," says a report from one of the representatives in Brussels, "these are all people of one nationality and all with a common and undeserved misfortune. They are of all classes but we know none of them save by number because no matter what their station or the extent of their misfortune they still have l'amour propre and many of them, if they were compelled to write their names on coupons when they get the soup would rather starve than take it. None of them think that they will always have to be in the bread lines and every one of them feel that when it is all over they will want to forget that they have been destitute.

"The soup for these pitiful flotsam and jetsam of war is all prepared in the large storehouses of the International Express Company Van Gand. More than one hundred people are engaged in this work. Among them are former chefs of some of the leading hotels of Brussels, who give directions as to the kind and quality of the soup, its ingredients and their proportions. Under them are those who clean the vegetables—potatoes, carrots, beans etc.,—and prepare the meat. This entire staff is composed of volunteers except the chefs who receive at the most half-a-crown a day.

"From three o'clock in the morning, when the cooking of the first 6,000 gallons of soup is started, the scene in the circus-like storehouse of the Express Company is one of tremendous activity with the moving figures of the hundred white-clad chefs, the fires ablaze under scores of immense cauldrons—all dimly seen through the shifting clouds of pungent steam rising from the boiling soup.

"When the soup is cooked it is sent, under the seals of the Commission and under the protection of the American flag, in large lorries to the twenty-one canteens, scattered all over Brussels. These canteens were formerly schools, dance halls, turkish baths, etc. During the morning, whenever one goes, women and children may be seen coming and going with pitchers of steaming soup and their ration of bread under their arms.

NATIONS MUST CARE FOR FROZEN MEATS

An Authority on This Trade Declared German's Meat Supply Will Not Be Seriously Effected by War.

(Correspondence of the A. P.)

London, Feb. 11.—An authority on the frozen meat trade is of the opinion that up to the present Germany's meat supply has not been seriously affected by the war, but as in all the other belligerent nations, economy there in this respect will be necessary. Of the general effects of the war on European meat supplies he says:

"In France the hostile occupation of considerable tracts of territory has certainly tended to curtail the quantity of meat available, but the remaining stocks undoubtedly have provided disproportionately heavy killings, otherwise prices would have advanced more than has been the case. Probably the larger proportion of the 2,000,000 head of cattle in the eastern provinces, available in July last, are permanently lost to France, as meat producers. On the other hand, France, having removed import duties and restrictions, has already imported large quantities of frozen meat, and has arranged for still larger imports in the near future. This change of policy is so marked and its effect likely to be so far-reaching, that it can hardly fail to influence materially the course of the whole frozen meat trade for some time to come. Formerly France kept out frozen meat to protect her farmers. Now that country is admitting frozen meat, not only to supply military requirements, but also to protect her flocks and herds from undue depletion.

LA CROSSE WILL ATTEMPT TO "SWAP" REAL ESTATE WITH STATE OF MINNESOTA.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 11.—This city will make another effort to "swap" real estate with the commonwealth of Minnesota.

Preparations are made for another attempt to induce the Wisconsin legislature to cede to Minnesota the island in the Mississippi river opposite Red Wing, in return for the ceding of Pettibone park to Wisconsin.

Pettibone park, which was presented to this city by A. W. Pettibone, a local capitalist, who expended $100,000 on the gift, is located on Barron's island, opposite La Crosse, and is the mecca of thousands of visitors during the summer. The fact it is in Minnesota, however, renders it impossible for La Crosse to police its own pleasure grounds.

Action by the legislatures to 'swap' the two islands was started two years ago. The Minnesota law was passed which provided, however, that La Crosse should not come into possession of Pettibone park until the island of Red Wing was ceded in Minnesota.

The Wisconsin legislature failed to pass the reciprocal bill on account of the opposition to citizens of Pierce county, who protested because their county would lose the taxes on the island. The bill will be reintroduced in its original form.

How the Westfield Standard Protects, Where the Government Food Laws Do Not.

Tenth of a series to appear on the Food Page of this paper each Thursday.

WHAT would you think of a law against counterfeiting that permitted counterfeiting provided the fact were stated on each spurious coin, or a law against smuggling that allowed the smuggler to sell his goods provided that fact were stated on the goods themselves? Very bad, you would call it.

Well, then, what do you think of a Food Law that permits the use of drugs or chemical preservatives and coloring in food products provided the presence of these harmful chemicals is stated on the label?

This is exactly what the National Food Law does.

If counterfeit money were allowed to circulate freely in this country people would naturally seek some standard by which they might tell the good from the bad.

Precisely the same condition has been brought about in the matter of foods. Since the Government has failed to stop the traffic in artificially preserved, colored and bleached foods and beverages, it is only natural that the public should turn to the Westfield Standard for protection against these abuses.

In the Government's own printed report, "Influence of Food Preservatives and Artificial Colors on Digestion and Health," many of these chemicals are called dangerous.

As a matter of public interest you will find below in alphabetical order a list of drugs and chemicals permitted under the present lax Food and Drugs Act, but not permitted by the food standards of Westfield, the Pure Food Town.

List of Drugs and Chemicals Permitted Under the Food and Drugs Act, Pending Further Investigation, but Not Permitted by the Westfield Standard.

Alum and Aluminum Compounds.
Found in cheap baking powders, pickles, condiments and various bakers' products.

Benzoate of Sodium and Benzoic Acid.
A drug used for the preservation of jams, jellies, catsups, fruit products in general, with the exception of canned fruits and vegetables or dried fruits.

Often found as an adulterant in Hamburger Steak. Its use often allows the use of unfit raw materials—partially decayed.

Caffeine.
The active principle or alkaloid of coffee. Sometimes added to soft drinks or syrups to impart an exhilarating effect.

Citral.
An aldehyde naturally present in lemon oil and also in oil of lemongrass. Is prepared artificially by oxidizing geraniol with chromic acid. Used in the manufacture of cheap lemon substitute flavoring.

Coal Tar Dyes.
Before the passage of the Food and Drugs Act, coal tar dyes were used indiscriminately. Through subsequent investigation the number legally employed today is seven. Their names are given herewith:

Red shades—
Amaranth 107.
56 Ponceau 3R.
517 Erythrosin.
Orange shades—
85 Orange 1.
Yellow shades—
4 Naphthol Yellow S.
Green shades—
435 Light Green S. F. Yellowish.
Blue shades—
692 Indigo Disulfo Acid.

They are called "Certified" colors. Referred to by some as the "Sacred Seven," inasmuch as they are jealously guarded and protected by some manufacturers.

They are used to lend a so-called improvement on the colors provided by nature, or for purposes of deceit, or to render foods more attractive in appearance. Candies, confectionery, dessert preparations, food colors, extracts, egg powders, pie fillers, ice cream dressing and the like are frequently colored with them.

Lemon-Grass Oil.
A substitute for pure lemon oil.

Salicylic Acid.
A rheumatism "cure" used for the preservation of fruit products such as jams, jellies and lime juice.

Sodium Sulphite.
A photographer's salt. Found frequently in Hamburger Steak, sausage and chopped meats. It prevents the blood from oxidizing and thereby becoming dark colored. In other words, gives a false impression of the freshness of the meat.

Sulphurous Acid.
An antiseptic used as a preservative; also as a bleacher of vegetable products.

Sulphur Dioxid.
The poisonous gas given off by the burning sulphur fumes. Used to bleach apples, apricots, Sultana raisins, molasses, etc. It unites with water to form sulphurous acid.

Synthetic Ethers.
These consist in general of the combination of half a dozen different ethers. Their use is entirely unnecessary, since true fruit flavors —strawberry, raspberry, peach, etc. —can readily be obtained today.

Vanillin.
One of the several flavoring agents present in the vanilla beans. It is now largely obtained by treating eugenol of clove oil with alkaline potassium permanganate and is used in the manufacture of cheap vanilla flavoring substitutes.

Coumarin.
The active principle of the tonka bean. It may be synthetically prepared from Coal Tar Derivatives.

Used as an adulterant of vanilla extract and in the preparation of vanilla flavor substitute.

(To be continued.)

Here is the Food Standard of the Pure Food Town of Westfield, Mass.

More exacting than Government Food Standards or State Food Laws:

"Foods shall not contain added ALUM, COPPER, FORMALDEHYDE, SULFUROUS ACID or its Salts, BORIC ACID or its Salts, BENZOIC ACID or its Salts, FORMIC ACID or its Salts, HYDROFLUORIC ACID or its Salts, SALICYLIC ACID or its Salts, nor any other non-condimental preservative.

"Foods shall not be colored with COAL TAR DYES, nor with poisonous VEGETABLE COLORS, nor be contaminated with inert fillers, nor shall any substance be taken therefrom or added thereto so as to injuriously affect their quality, strength or purity.

"Foods shall be packed and sold under sanitary conditions and package goods shall bear no DISHONEST LABEL nor labels bearing any EXTRAVAGANT or OBSCURE statements."

For protection to yourself and your family, see that you buy only foods and beverages that are certified under "The Westfield Standard."

You will then be buying only products of high food value—wholesome and pure.

Adjourned Annual Meeting of the Rock County Board of Supervisors

Supervisor Smith moved that three hundred dollars be and hereby is appropriated out of the general fund for the use of the building committee for incidentals.

Adopted by the following vote:

Anderson, Austin, Bennett, Benson, Bingham, Crall, Cullen, Dalton, Ebbott, Hafman, Hansen, Hopkins, Hull, Keough, MaGee, Marquart, Maxson, McCarthy, O'Neal, Onsgard, Overton, Peterson, Morris, Rehfeld, Ross, Smith, Gillis, Stoney, Swingle, Sykes, Treadway, Tullar, Warner, Wilford, Moseley. Ayes, 35; absent, 4.

Supervisor Overton moved that whereas the Attorney General has ruled that the County Board of Education is not entitled to any compensation for its services beyond that which is received by the County Board of Supervisors, whether such compensation should be known as expense money, mileage or otherwise. Now therefore be it resolved that the County Clerk, be and is hereby instructed not to draw any orders from the fund of $200 appropriated at the November meeting of this Board for expenses of the County Board of Education, to be incurred as special work of County Board of Education.

Adopted by the following vote:

Anderson, Bennett, Bingham, Crall, Dalton, Hafeman, Hansen, Hull, Keough, MaGee, Marquart, Maxson, McCarthy, Onsgard, Overton, Peterson, Rehfeld, Ross, Gillis, Stoney, Swingle, Warner, Moseley. Ayes, 23; nays, 0.

Supervisor Cullen moved to adjourn to 10:30 o'clock a. m. tomorrow.

Carried.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 13, 1915.

Board met pursuant to adjournment at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

Called to order by H. B. Moseley, chairman.

At roll call all members present except Supervisors Denning and Wilford.

Quorum present.

Chas. E. Moore submitted as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit this the seventh annual report of the Highway Commissioner of Rock County as follows:

Total 1914 joint fund	$ 76,635.33
Outstanding bills, 1913 work	3,573.53
Total orders	$117,372.87
Balance in treasury	$ 12,815.81
Outstanding bills	$ 12,372.78

There were built during the past season 45 2-10 miles of macadam road of which approximately 18 7-10 miles were made of pit run gravel 5 1-5 miles rock bottom and gravel top 18 miles of waterbound crushed gravel.

Three-fifths miles of waterbound crushed rock.

One-half mile of rubble.

And in addition one mile was graded and one-half mile is being graded this winter across a slough in the town of Fulton.

There was hauled on to the roads 56,000 cubic yards surfacing.

There were built ten state aid bridges and eighty-seven re-inforced concrete culverts and three-quarter miles of guard rail. All of the work was practically completed. Owing to the fact that it was a favorable season for road work and to the very valuable assistance given by means of the four rock crushers, gravel conveyor and screening attachments and also to the increased co-operation and efficiency of the men in our employ. The past season has been by far the most successful season in road building. Rock County has known both as to quantity and quality of work done.

Rock County has known both as to quantity and quality of work done. The work has been in fact too extensive for one commissioner to supervise without too great exertion, especially in view of the fact that no one in the County was accustomed to crushing and water-binding gravel macadam. This has necessitated the closest personal supervision by the Commissioner. Still we hope by means of better organization and the past seasons training and experience on the part of all engaged to render still more affective service the coming season.

Forward should always be the watchward with an emphasis upon quality rather than upon quantity. The amount of the work done in the past season was much in excess of our expectations, but we yielded to the insistant demands of the people and Town Board in various localities that the work be done even to the extent in many instances of anticipating next year's appropriation. We append herewith the statistical tables and classified statement of work and expenditures.

It will be noted from the tables that the average cost per square yard for new work was 32 cents and for reconstruction was 25 cents, whereas the average cost for macadam work in general as given out by authorities runs from 70 to 90 cents per square yard. Surely no one can conclude from the above comparison that the roads in Rock County are not being economically built. As to bridges and culverts many hundred dollars have been saved to the County by establishing a flat rate per cubic yard for concrete work and encouraging local parties to take it up. In some instances bridges have been built for half the price bid for them by regular bridge companies. In most instances the quality of the work will bear favorable comparison. This applies particularly to small bridges. We now have enough competent men engaged in this work so that in the future all steel will be ordered by the County and the construction taken care of as above stated.

The automobile is revolutionizing road-building to such an extent that each year brings with it new problems to be mastered. Roads that a few years ago were sufficient for horse drawn vehicles are now found to be inadequate for excessive automobile traffic; motor drawn vehicles are here to stay, and each year in increasing numbers.

The application of binder oils to macadam roads is not an experiment in the minds of those who have had an opportunity to observe. It is at present the only known method of counteracting the raveling effect of automobile traffic. Your commissioner earnestly recommends that your honorable body will at this session provide for the purchase of the necessary equipment for one oiling outfit and will also set aside a fund for oiling purposes. The past season has shown that the four rollers now owned by the County are quite fully occupied with our crushing outfits. This renders another roller a practical necessity to take care of other work, otherwise the work will be seriously held up in many instances and will suffer greatly in quality to say nothing of the economic saving in having the necessary machinery to build roads properly. The purchase of another roller will add to the life of the ones we now have by sharing the work with them, as rollers do not rust out, but wear out. We have abandoned the contruction of rubble roads and hope the rollers will now stand the service better, as rolling such roads was severe to them. In conclusion we wish to thank our contractors and workmen for their co-operation and the press and public of Rock County for their friendly attitude and this County Board for its unstinted support. We would be ungrateful if we did not mention in this connection the town and village officers who have done all they could to help the work along. The officials of the State Highway department have given us the benefit of their wider experience in helping through many a hard problem. We even thank our critics, as criticism when not based upon ignorance and malice is always a spur to better service.

Hoping that all things will work together for the good of the cause, we are looking forward to a successful season in 1915.

Respectfully submitted,
CHAS. E. MOORE,
County Highway Commissioner.

Referred to Committee 6.

Supervisor Bingham moved to adjourn to 2:00 o'clock p. m.

Carried.

Afternoon Session.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 13, 1915.

Board met pursuant to adjournment at 2.00 o'clock p. m.

Called to order by H. B. Moseley, chairman.

At roll call all members present except Supervisor Denning.

Quorum present.

Supervisor Smith moved to consideration of Bill No. 2, F. A. Taylor.

Carried.

On motion Mr. Taylor spoke in regard to his bill.

Supervisor Hopkins moved that bill be referred to Committee 10, with instructions to allow same.

Carried.

Supervisor Treadway submitted as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen: Your Committee No. 6 wishes to report as follows: That they have examined the report of the County Highway Commissioner as to the towns receiving aid for the improvement of roads for the year 1914 and find them and other bills pertaining to the county highways to be as set forth in the detailed report of the commissioner.

Your commitee further reports that it concurs with the Commissioner of Highways in regard to the purchase of another roller. It will be better to hold up the work than to try to build roads without the necessary machinery. Pursuant to the question of oiling and the purchase of the necessary equipment that was referred to your committee at the November session of this Board, your committee wishes to state that it has investigated the question to its satisfaction and is convinced that this Board ought to provide the means and necessary equipment for oiling. We need only to cite Dane County, where they are so well satisfied with their two years' experience in oiling that they will operate four oil distributors next season. The probable cost of an oiling outfit such as we would recommend for Rock County is $835.00.

B. D. TREADWAY,
E. L. BINGHAM,
Committee.

F. F. Livermore
Co. Treasurer.

Referred to committee 9.

Supervisor Overton submitted as follows:

Resolved, that in the future, the towns pay one-half of the cost of supervision of construction of the county bridges in their respective towns and that the other half be charged back pro-rata to that part of the county, liable for bridge tax.

Adopted.

Supervisor Dalton submitted as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen: Being a resident of the Village of Clinton, in the County of Rock, State of Wisconsin, hereby petition your honorable body to accept and class as a County highway, such portion of the following described highways in said Village, as may not heretofore have been so accepted and classed. Said highways are described as follows:

Beginning at the West line of the Village limits in the said Village of Clinton on the street known as Milwaukee Street and running thence Northeasterly across the Village to the Easterly line of said Village; also that part of Mill Street extending from Milwaukee Street South to Village limits or at the intersection of said Mill Street with the Lake Shore drive. All said roads connecting with County Highway System.

Adopted.

Supervisor George W. Doty submitted the following report:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County:

Gentlemen: Your Committee No. 9 whose duty it is to examine the accounts of the receipts and disbursements of the officers of the County, have to report that we have examined the accounts of F. F. Livermore, County Treasurer, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1914, and have compared the vouchers with the books in his and the County Clerk's office and have found the same to be correct.

Supervisor Smith submitted as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Rock County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen: Your Special Committee, to whom was referred the claim of the City of Janesville for paving the street south of the park for the amount of $1238.36, would beg to report that they have considered the aforesaid claim and obtained the opinion of the Deputy Attorney General (which is placed on file), and find that the County is not legally liable for the amount of said claim, it not being in accord with an agreement or contract entered into between the County of Rock and the City of Janesville, now on record in the Register of Deeds office.

Your committee further report that we cannot find any legal objection against the County, allowing the amount claimed or any part thereof; if in your judgment it is equitable and just to the claimant, we, therefore, return the bill without recommendation.

Respectfully submitted,
SIMON SMITH,
J. P. CULLEN,
GEO. W. DOTY,
Committee.

Supervisor Simon Smith moved that the report of the Special Committee on the claim of the city of Janesville for paving be made a special order for tomorrow, January 14, at 2:00 p. m.

Supervisor Overton submitted as follows:

Your Committee No. 12 begs leave to report as follows: Your Committee has co-operated with the supervisors of the following named towns, in the construction and repairing of bridges in their respective towns as per petitions presented at the April meeting of this Board. The Town of Harmony having repaired one bridge at a cost of $1,325.00. The Whitewater Bridge company being the lowest bidder was awarded the contract.

The Town of Janesville made repairs on the four-mile bridge to the amount of $1,528.03. H. S. Wetherell of Chicago being the lowest bidder, was awarded the contract.

The Town of Newark constructed five bridges at a cost of $2,870.49. The contracts were awarded to W. H. Shontz of Freeport, Ill., through their agent, Wm. Lilliquist, he being the lowest bidder.

The Town of Spring Valley constructed two bridges at a cost of $1,000.00. Contracts were awarded to W. C. Kiernan of Whitewater, he being the lowest bidder.

The Town of Plymouth constructed five bridges at a cost of $2,030.50. Contract awarded to W. C. Kiernan of Whitewater, he being the lowest bidder. The County's share was $989.75, and the Town of Plymouth's share was $1,040.75. The difference being on account of the cost of four of the bridges being under $400.

The Town of Rock constructed one bridge at a cost of $875.00. T. H. Lentz being the lowest bidder was awarded the contract.

The Town of Center constructed one bridge at a cost of $424.90. H. S. Wetherell being the lowest bidder was awarded the contract.

There has bee nthe sum of $6,046.96 expended as the County's share of said bridges appropriated by this Board as per petitions from the above named Towns for the construction of said bridges. The petitions as presented amounted to $6,149.02, thus leaving a balance of $102.06 appropriated not expended.

There have been in addition four emergency bridges built, one in the Town of Turtle, costing $406; one in the Town of Center, costing $590; one in the Town of Spring Valley, costing $565; one in the Town of Avon, costing $520. These bridges were let by contract and inspected and accepted by your Committee the same as other bridges.

The two bridges left incompleted last year, namely the Town of La Prairie and the Town of Newark, known as the Newark Store bridge, have both been completed, and accepted by your Committee and orders of $200 and $795 respectively have been drawn for the same.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ELI CRALL,
R. K. OVERTON,
JOSEPH ROSS.

Adopted.

Supervisor Hopkins read as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:

Gentlemen: At the November meeting a resolution was passed by this board that committee 7 investigate the acoustic conditions of the upper court chamber and report at the January meeting.

Your committee has taken this matter up with Judge Grimm and his advice is, while the acoustic condition of the court room is bad he has managed to get along for years and the work has gone on without hindrance and would recommend to wait at least another year until a general reduction in taxes will make it easier, and we will all be willing to do something towards comfort.

E. C. HOPKINS,
SIMON SMITH.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—It Appears That Father Had a Reason— BY F. LEIPZIGER

A BAD COUGH FOLLOWED GRIPPE

James Martin Tells How Vinol Stopped the Cough and Restored His Strength After an Attack of Grippe.

Wapakoneta, Ohio.—"I am a farmer by occupation and the grippe left me with a bad cough and in a nervous, weak run-down condition, and I could not seem to get anything to do me any good. I decided to try Vinol, and soon began to improve, and after taking one bottle I feel like a new man. Vinol has built me up, and my cough and nervousness are all gone, and I can truly say Vinol is all that is claimed for it."—James Martin, Wapakoneta, Ohio.

The many letters which we are continually publishing from reliable people should prove to you that Vinol is a reliable body builder and strength creator; in fact we feel safe in saying that we have never sold in our store a more dependable, upbuilding tonic for the convalescent, weak and run-down than Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil. Therefore if you need such a medicine, we ask you to try a bottle of Vinol, and if you don't think it helps you, we will return your money.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy for all weak, nervous and run-down conditions of men, women and children.—Smith Drug Co., and at leading drug Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis., and at leading drug stores everywhere.

Troublesome Dish.

The jackal, which requires ten hours' boiling, is a food requiring much preparation, but it does not hold the record in this respect. That is held by the elephant. Elephant's foot, a real delicacy, will not attain its full succulence without a good 36 hours' baking.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but Is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE LADY AND THE PIRATE

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1913, by Emerson Hough

"Nothing this morning, Hiro," I managed to choke out, "and, Hiro, make ready my bag, the small one, for a journey."

"S-s-s-s!" hissed Hiroshimi, which was his way of saying, "Yes, sir, very well, sir."

I managed to better the wardrobe of both boys by certain ducks and linens from my own store, albeit a world too large. Lafitte, none too happy at being thus uncongenially clean, was delight itself when set to selecting an armament from my collection. He chose three bright and clean Japanese swords, special blades of the samurai armorers, forged long before Mutsuhito's grandfather was a boy—I had paid a rare price for them in Japan. To these he added three basket handled cutlasses, which I had obtained in London, each almost old enough to have belonged to the crew of Drake himself. A short barreled magazine pistol for each of us was his concession to the present unromantic age. As for Jimmy, he insisted on a small bore rifle as well as a shotgun. "We might see something," he remarked laconically.

Thus equipped, I persuaded my associates to lay aside most of their somewhat archaic artillery. Neither had taken any thought of other supplies. Hiroshimi, however, now appeared, bearing, in addition to my hand luggage, two hampers, a roll of blankets and a silk tent in its canvas wrapper.

"Honorable is embarked in those small going boat that is made tied to the bank?" inquired Hiroshimi. I only nodded now, relying on his efficiency. He approached my young pirates, and rather against their will removed from them some of their burden or weapons, slinging about himself bundles, baskets, bags and cutlery, until he almost disappeared from view. He cast on me a reproachful gaze, however, as he took from Lafitte's hand the barred blade of the old samurai sword and noted the ancient inscription on blade and scabbard as he sheathed it reverently.

"What does it say, Hiro?" I asked of him.

"Very old talk, honorable," answered Hiroshimi. "It say, 'Oh, honorable gentleman who carry me, I invite you to make high and noble adventurings.'"

"Let me carry it, Hiro," said I, and I tucked it under my own arm.

"Good!" exclaimed L'Olonnois. "Then you are going with us? And did you write the letters that you promised us?"

"I always keep my word."

"And it'll be all right back home about mother and the boat? I'll give you my $6."

"There is no need. I told you if you would make me one of the crew of the Sea Rover and let me seek my fortune with you I would gladly pay all the reckoning of our journey."

"And how long will we be gone?"

"Till after your school begins, I fear."

"And how far are you going with us?"

"Spang to the Spanish main!" I answered.

So then we set forth down my woodland path.

We were greeted by no hostile shot and found our vessel quite as we had left her, as I could see at a glance when we neared the bank; but, none the less, something stirred in the bushes. A growl and a sudden barking greeted Hiroshimi as he approached the boat in advance.

"You, Tige!" called out Lafitte. The dog, a dog none too beautiful and now just a bit forlorn, approached us, alternately wagging in friendship and retreating in alarm.

"Well, what do you think of that?" said Jimmy. "We left him back at the lake—sent him home half a dozen times. How'd he get here and how'd he know where we was?"

"He couldn't 'a' swum the lake," assented John, "and it was more'n ten miles around, and how could he smell where we went on the water? Come here, Tige, you blame fool!"

"Nay," said I; "he is no fool, this dog, but a creature of great reason, else he never could have found you. And I'll be bound he is as keen for adventure as any of us."

"He is coming here last night two ow-wore after dinner," said the omniscient Hiroshimi. "Also he bite me on leg. He also is malefactor."

"He has allotted to himself the duty of caring for the property of his masters, Hiro," I said, "and hence is not really a malefactor. Besides, since he would not leave the boat and follow our trail he is by this time hungry. Feed him, Hiro."

But Hiroshimi was not eager to approach the piratical canine again, so I myself fished something from a hamper and called the dog to me. He ate gladly and most gratefully.

Now, it is a strange thing to say, but it is the truth, I had never before in my life fed a dog. I had won many knotty suits at law, had solved many hard problems dealing with human nature and had found human nature for the most part rarely glad or grateful, but I had never owned or even fed a dog. A strange new feeling came in my throat now. Suddenly I swallowed some invisible, intangible thing.

"John," said I, "what breed of dog is this?" Indeed, it was hard to tell offhand, although he had the keen head of a collie.

"I guess he's just one o' them partial dogs," answered John—"mostly shepherd, maybe; I dunno."

"Very well, Partial shall be his name. And is he yours?"

"He runs round on the farm. He goes with Jimmy and me."

"John, will you sell me Partial?" I asked this suddenly, realizing that my voice might sound odd.

"What'd you want him fer?" he replied. "He'd be a nuisance."

"I think not. See how faithful he has been; see how grateful he is, and how wise. He reasoned where you were as well as I reasoned who you were. He knows now that we are talking about him and knows that I am his friend—see him look at me; see him come over and stand by me. John; do you think—do you believe a dog, this dog, would learn to like me, ever? Would he understand me?"

"Well," said John judiciously, standing sword in hand, "I dunno. Somewhys, maybe dogs and boys understand quicker. But you understand us. Maybe he'd understand you."

"Well reasoned, Jean Lafitte," said I. "Perhaps your logic is better than you know—at least I hope so."

"Honorable is embarking those malefactor canine thing with so much impediments in this small going boat?" inquired Hiroshimi.

"Yes," I answered. "At once. All four of us. Put the stuff aboard, Hiro."

So, somewhat crowded as the Sea Rover was with three boys and a dog, not to mention our supplies and our armament, at last we were afloat with crew and cargo aboard.

Ah, what a fine new world was this which lay before us!

* * * * * * *

To me, used to exact habit of thought in all things and accustomed to be governed by trained reason alone, it was never enough to say that a thing was partly done, or well enough done to pass; only the best possible way had any appeal to me. I brought my reason to bear on every situation in life. Thus I studied an investment carefully, and before going into it I knew what the result would be. My investments therefore always have prospered, because they were not based on guess or chance, as nine-tenths of all the public's business ventures are. In the same way I had gone deliberately about the matter of winning the regard of the only woman I ever saw who seemed to me much worth while. I argued and reasoned with Helena Emory that she should marry me, proving to her by every rule of logic that not only was she the most lovable woman in all the records of the world, but also that love such as mine never had before been known in the world. Sometimes, as I logically proved the fitness of our union and grew warm at my own accuracy, she wavered, relented, warmed. And then again, forgetting my argument, she would relapse into womanlike frivolity once more. I did not like to think of this as I sat in the shade with Partial. It cost me much in self respect, irritated me.

But, having studied sport and outdoor living deliberately as I had studied the law and business and Helena, I had rather a thorough grounding on life in the open, for I had read every authority obtainable, whereas my young associates had read none. So cautiously, now and then, I suggested little things to them, as that the fire need not be so large, and would do better if confined between two green side logs. I taught them how to boil the kettle quickly, how to make tea, and also, more difficult, how to make coffee; how to cook bacon just enough, and how to cook fish—for I had taken a few trout earlier in the day—and how to make toast without charring it to cinders. Again, I delighted them by telling them of little camping devices, and quite won their hearts when I found among Hiroshimi's packages a small camp griddle with folding legs, of my own devising. It was quite clean and new, but it performed as I felt quite sure it would. In fact, reason will govern all things—except a woman.

I could see—and I noted it with much gratification—that I was rising in the estimation of my pirates. It pleased me not at all to show that I knew more than they of these things, for I was older and my mind was long my trained servant, but I had monstrous delight in seeing myself accepted as one fit to associate with them.

We sat by our fireside, before our little tent, after a pleasant meal which I know was well cooked because I cooked it myself—trout, a young squirrel, and toast, and real coffee—and Partial was close at my knee, having obviously adopted me. We were fifteen or twenty miles from my house, nearly twice that from their homes, but the world, itself, seemed very remote from us. We reveled in a new luxurious world of rare deeds, rare dreams all our own. I was conjuring up some new argument to put before Helena should I ever see her again—as of course I never should—when Lafitte rolled over on the grass and looked up at us.

"We was just saying," he remarked, "that you didn't have no name."

"That is true. I have not told you my name nor have you asked it. Had you been impolite you might have learned it by prying about my place." I spoke gravely and with approval.

"No; we didn't know who you was."

"Let it be so. Let me be a man of no name. A name is of no consequence, and neither am I."

"Sho, now, that ain't so. I never seen a better—now, I never seen"—Jean Lafitte's reticence in friendship again was getting the better of him.

"So we said we'd call you Black Bart," added L'Olonnois.

"That is a most excellent name," said I after some thought. "At present I can find no objection to it except that I wear no beard at all and would have a red or brown one if I did and that Black Bart was rather a pirate of the land than of the sea."

"Was he?" queried L'Olonnois. "Wasn't he a pirate, too, never?"

"There was a famous pirate chief known as Bluebeard or Blackbeard, and it may be sometimes they called him Black Bart."

"Wasn't he a awful desper't' sort of pirate?"

"He is said to have been."

"It sounds like a awful desper't' name," said Jimmy, "like as though he'd fill up his ship with captured maidens and put all rivals to the sword."

"Such indeed, shipmate," said I, "was his reputation."

"Well," concluded L'Olonnois, "we couldn't think o' any better name'n that because we know that is just what you would do."

(So, then, my reputation was advancing!)

"We must be an awful long ways from home," ventured L'Olonnois after a time.

"Hundreds of miles our good ship has plowed the deep and as yet has raised no sail above the horizon," I admitted.

I drew from my pocket a map and a compass, the latter mostly for effect, since I knew very well the bed of our river must shape our course for many a mile. On the map I pointed out how presently our river would run into a lake into which also ran another river and would emerge on the other side much larger. I showed them that down that other river, as down mine, logs used to float from the pine forests—many of my father's logs, of ownership said to be piratical—and I showed how presently this stream would carry us into one of the ancient waterways down which millions of wealth in timber have come, and explained about the wild crews of river runners who once ran the rafts down that great highway and into the greater highway of the Mississippi, whence men might in due time arrive upon the Spanish main.

"Is there any way a fellow can get across from Lake Michigan into the Mississippi river?" demanded Lafitte, who was of a practical turn of mind, and on the map I showed him all the old trails of the fur traders, explorers and adventurers, French and English, who had discovered our America long ago, whereat their eyes kindled and their tongues went dumb.

CHAPTER IV.

In Which We Have an Adventure.

OUR band of hardy adventurers arose with the sun on the morning following our first night in bivouac, and by noon of that day, thanks perhaps in some measure to my own work at the oars and a sail which we rigged from a corner of the tent, we had passed into and through the lake which our map had showed us. Now we were below the edge of the pine woods, and our stream ran more sluggishly between banks of cattails or of waving marsh grasses. We put out a trolling line and took a bass or so, and once Lafitte, firing chance medley into a passing flock of plover, knocked down a half dozen, so that we bade fair to have enough for dinner that night. It was all a new world for us.

Toward nightfall we came into a more rolling and more parklike region. Our prow was now heading to the westward, for the general course of the great river beyond. I had no notion to visit the city of Chicago, and our route lay far above that which must be taken by any large craft bound for the Mississippi route to the gulf.

Farms now came down to the water's edge in places, villages offered mill pond dams, around which in scowling reticence we portaged the Sea Rover, unmindful alike of queries and of jeers. I found time to post additional letters now. Indeed, I was preparing for a long and determined enterprise. It was the Sea Rover against the Belle Helene, and, did the skipper of the latter loll along in flanneled ease and luxury, not so with the hardy band of cutthroats who manned our smaller and more mobile craft, men used to hardships, content to drink spring water instead of sparkling wines and to eat the product of their own weapons.

We were I do not know how far from our first encampment, perhaps thirty miles or more, when toward 5 o'clock of the evening we concluded to land at a wooded grassy bank which offered a good camping place. We heard a gruff voice hail us.

"Heh! What're you doin' there?"

We turned, expecting to meet some irate farmer on whose land perhaps we innocently were trespassing, but the figure which now emerged from the screening bushes was rougher, bolder, and in some indescribable way wilder, than that of a farmer. He was a stout man nearly of middle age, dirty and ill clad, his coarse shirt open at the neck, his legs clad in old overalls, his hat and shoes very much the worse for wear. His face was covered with a rough beard, and so brown and so begrimed that, at once, I guessed this must be some dweller in the open. Yet he seemed no tramp, and even if he were he had no right to hail us in this fashion.

Dinner Stories

"But why did you leave your last place?" the lady asked the would-be cook.

"To tell the truth, mum, I just couldn't stand the way the master an' the missus used to quarrel, mum."

"Dear me! Do you mean to say that they actually used to quarrel?"

"Yis, mum, all the time, when it wasn't me an' him, it was me an' her."

The teacher had been telling what a great and good man Washington was. She concluded by asking the boys who would like to be a second George Washington to hold up their hand. They all held up their hand but one.

"Wouldn't you like to be a second George Washington, Tommy?" she asked.

"Too late now," said Tommy. "I have told too many lies."

Benetol Kills Germs Causing Sore Gums

U. S. Reports This Non-Poisonous and Safe Antiseptic a Superior Germ Killer to Even Deadly Carbolic Acid.

Up to the time that Prof. Carel discovered, in the laboratories of the University of Minnesota, the new chemical product called Benetol (scientifically, Glycerite of Naphthol) there existed no germ killer that could be used in the mouth sufficiently strong to really kill germs without great danger of poisoning. Now Benetol has been proven harmless even when four ounces are taken into the stomach, and yet tests by U. S. authorities show it to be a much more powerful germ killer than even virulent carbolic acid! (See Government Bulletin No. 82).

Of course, this means an end to pyorrhea, sore, bleeding or spongy gums, mouth cankers, sore throats and tonsilitis, for these are all due to germs that can now be easily reached and speedily by Benetol.

You need Benetol for both household and personal use. Throw away those weak, powerless "antiseptics" such as peroxide of hydrogen, for U. S. tests show it to have almost no germ killing power. (See page 65, U. S. Government Bulletin No. 82). A drop of Benetol is worth a spoonful of them. Throw away such deadly, dangerous chemicals as carbolic acid and bi-chloride of mercury. Let Benetol, the SAFE and SURE germicide, protect your health.

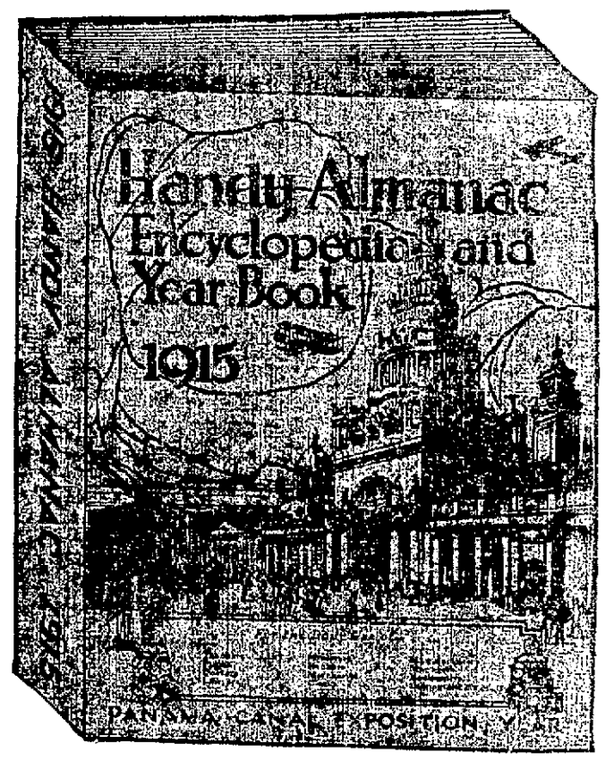

At druggists'—25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles, with full directions. Valuable booklet in every package. If your neighborhood druggist has no Benetol, ask him to get it for you.

The Benetol Co., Minneapolis, guarantees the truth of this advertisement.

Benetol is sold in Janesville by Smith Pharmacy, 14 West Milwaukee St., Mc'ne & Russ, Empire Drug Store, 14 S. Main St.

HOW TO MAKE THE CHEAPEST AND BEST COUGH REMEDY AT HOME

Most persons neglect a cough or cold for the principal reason that they either don't think it serious enough to go to a doctor, or don't know what good medicine to buy at a drug store, with the result that the cough or cold becomes deep-seated through this neglect and hangs on the whole winter—which might have otherwise been speedily cured, had Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant been used promptly.

This new remedy is altogether different from any other kind, and is so strongly concentrated that two ounces (50 cents' worth) make a full pint (16 ozs.) of excellent cough medicine, by simply mixing it at home with one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of water. It makes a whole family supply, as much as would ordinarily cost from $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of doubtful merit. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants and is so pleasant that children like to take it and it can be given them with perfect safety as it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine, or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. No risk whatever is run in buying this remedy, as Smith's Pharmacy will refund money if it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the very best remedy you have ever used for stubborn Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough and Hoarseness. In fact, all druggists of this city sell it under the same guarantee. R. J. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn. 53.

ANTI FAIR AID BILL GOES INTO DISCARD

After Hearing Yesterday Assemblyman McGowan States That He Will Not Press Statute's Passage.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—The McGowan bill to repeal the state aid to county fairs, including the La Crosse Inter-State Fair association, will undoubtedly be recommended for indefinite postponement and practically with the consent of the author. The bill was given a hearing yesterday afternoon by the assembly committee on state affairs. Assemblyman McGowan declared he did not believe that state aid was a good thing and thought the matter of aid should be left to the counties. He said that under the present plan many of the larger counties paid more for state aid than they received. He pointed out that in Dane county the amount of state aid received was about $2,500, while the proportion that the county paid was about $6,000. He believed that there would be less opportunity of spending the money for fairs too freely if the matter was left to the county, and that in many counties it would be cheaper under this new plan.

M. M. Parkinson of the Dane County Fair association opposed the bill. He said that state aid had given great encouragement to the county fairs. That a comparison of the better grades of stock, farm products and school work fifteen years ago with now would show the great benefit which state aid had done.

"There is not a state in the west that has as high a grade fairs, with as high a moral educational tone, as we are conducting in Wisconsin," declared Mr. Parkinson. F. A. Ryan, secretary of the Columbia County Fair association took a similar view of the matter. He pointed out that were state aid repealed it would destroy the laws which compel the county fairs to come up to a certain moral standard in order to obtain state aid. Assemblyman H. J. Grell of Johnson Creek presented a letter to the committee from citizens in his district protesting against the repeal of state aid and a letter was read from former Lieutenant Governor John Strange in which he declared that nothing would hamper the development of Wisconsin more than the repeal of the law, as proposed by Assemblyman McGowan. Former State Fair Secretary James MacKenzie was called upon and said few states had the high toned county fairs that Wisconsin has because of state aid. Assemblyman Robert Caldwell opposed the McGowan bill and Mr. McGowan finally told the committee that under the explanations made he would not press the bill.

HEADACHE, COLDS, COSTIVE BOWELS, TAKE CASCARETS

TONIGHT! CLEAN YOUR BOWELS AND END HEADACHES, COLDS, SOUR STOMACH.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

BAGDAD IS BASE OF PERSIAN INVASION

Turkish Army Is Mobilized at This Interesting and Sleepy Old City.

Thirty days by caravan from Constantinople, near the Persian frontier, in Turkish Arabia, and removed to the westward but fifty miles from the Garden of Eden, man's birthplace, stands the once splendid city of revelry, ancient Bagdad, for centuries the capital of the Mohammedan world, and now the second city of importance in the Ottoman empire. Withered by its riots of pleasure, an easy prey for Mongolia in 1258, generations asleep and behind-hand, the spirit of modern progress has recently taken hold there, and from Bagdad the flower of the Turkish army, officered by young men of highest military and scientific training, is pursuing an invasion of Persia. In one of a series of studies of lands affected by the war prepared for the National Geographic Society, Frederick and Margaret Simpich describe the city of Caliphs as it is today.

Bagdad, they say, is built on both sides of the river Tigris. On the west bank is the old town, with streets so narrow that it is often impossible for two donkeys to pass one another in them. The new town, with its government prisons, and great government army factory, lies upon the east bank. Around, as far as the eye can reach, stretches the vast, flat, treeless, empty plain of Mesopotamia. Twenty-five thousand Turkish soldiers are stationed at Bagdad, and this division of the Ottoman army apparently is as well trained as the model war machines of Europe.

The older houses are huddled together, box-shaped, with flat roofs, and almost windowless. Arabs spend the sultry summer nights on these flat roofs with tom-toms, flutes, waterpipes and dancing women. Banked with flowers, fragrant with scent, rythmic with eastern music, the roofs of Bagdad, in the days of its luxury, when it bore the distinction of being the most recklessly wicked city in the world, presented nightly broad acres of wildest revelry to the cloudless heavens. The license, the indolence, and the insecurity of old Bagdad are gone. Today, the city is as commercial in its spirit as New York. It has a large foreign trade; is a distributing center for all the country around. Bagdad is becoming more business and less romantic—the hard-riding, fierce fighting riders of former days having gone forever.

Modern methods are creeping in with modern business. The bazaars, however, are conducted the same as they were in the time of Marco Polo. They are held in streets like tunnels, arched with brick to keep out the heat, and are faintly lighted, surging with experts in intensive haggling, thick with stifling air, mingled in which are all the distinctive, discomforting odors of the east, a potpourri of all the agonies of smell. The individual shops are no larger than telephone booths. The shopkeepers sit cross-legged within their wares piled high around them. The shouting of offers rivals the noise of an American fair grounds. "Appease your mother-in-law," the flower vender sings out, and the other salesmen are as rhetorical.

"Rare old rugs," costly affairs, are made in Bagdad by laying fine new ones in the filth of the narrow streets beneath the tramp of men and beasts. The Bagdad traders in antiquities are not behind their confreres of Europe, who prepare, at short notice, articles of any one of the flown centuries.

Some fifty foreigners—British, German, Russian, Italian and French—lived in Bagdad before the outbreak of the war. Twelve of these were consuls. Arabs do not readily pick up a foreigner's name, but identify him usually by his work. Hence he who trades in licorice is "Father of Licorice," he who trades in rugs "Father of Rugs," and the dentist "Father of Teeth."

FRANCE LOST 193 MILLION THROUGH LOSS OF COMMERCE

(Correspondence Associated Press.)

Paris, Feb. 11.—Fiscal statistics for the year 1914 just compiled show that diminution of foreign commerce and decrease in returns from internal taxes has caused a loss of revenue to France aggregating 193 million francs (or about $38,400,000).

The ratio of decrease was greatest in September, which showed 56 million francs deficit; since then the ratio has steadily decreased by reason of an improvement in foreign trade, the difference in receipts for December being 34 million francs.

The decrease in the consumption of taxed beverages during the last five months of the year accounts for 89 million francs of the deficit. The consumption of tobacco is also shown to have diminished notably from the beginning of the war.

ORGANIZE SOCIETY FOR CARING OF FIGHTERS WHEN THE WAR IS OVER

(Correspondence Associated Press).

London, Feb. 11.—London has organized the "Never Forget League." Its purpose is to aid soldiers and sailors who find themselves out of employment when the war is over. Thirty thousand leaflets of the organization have been distributed, and fifteen thousand persons have already promised to wear the purple ribbon of the league, binding themselves to support the men who return from the front just as loyally as they are supporting them now.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL GIVES JANUARY REPORT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—Two hundred and sixty-five fires were reported to the state fire marshal last month, as against 220 for January, 1914. The damage was $312,295 as against $458,793, and insurance $931,185 as compared with $711,020. Chimneys led as fire causes with 48, losses of $56,565 being incurred. Stoves and allied causes came next with 39 and losses of $26,685, and unknown causes ranked third in number with 36 and losses of $71,110. Then came incendiary and suspicious fires, of which there were 13, with damage of $27,850.

UNION LABOR PLEAS FOR STATE PRINTING

Bill at Madison to Give Second Paper State Printing Finds Opposition From Labor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 11.—The senate committee on corporations has recommended for indefinite postponement the Bray bill, which asked for the repeal of the law requiring railroad companies to furnish steps to assist passengers on and off trains. Senator Bray told of his experiences with the law and at first believed that the law should be repealed. After some of the testimony of other members of the committee that perhaps the law was better than he had thought, he consented to the indefinite postponement of the bill.

The committee on state affairs of the senate gave a hearing on the Perry bill to have the laws officially published in the Madison Democrat, instead of in the Wisconsin State Journal. Senator Perry, Harry W. Bolens of Port Washington and O. D. Brandenburg, editor of the Madison Democrat, appeared in favor of the bill.

In opposition to the measure appeared a delegation of printers, who claimed that this was a question of union labor and that the Wisconsin State Journal was manned by a union labor force and that were the change made the paper would be printed by a shop that was not unionized. William T. Evjue, business manager of the Wisconsin State Journal, appeared in opposition to the bill.

The committee also held a hearing on the Cunningham bill to extend the payment for cattle slaughtered for bovine tuberculosis until 1917. Under the present law the state would not pay for condemned animals after July 1, 1915, and Senator Cunningham argued that the date of payment should be extended two years.

The senate judiciary committee recommended for indefinite postponement the Bray bill to amend the law passed two years ago, which requires the court to adjourn an action in which a member of the legislature appears on one side as an attorney. The Bray bill would permit an adjournment of the case for six months, the attorney asking for it to pay certain costs and to give a bond. By a unanimous vote the bill was recommended for death.

The judiciary committee also recommended the Weissleder bill, which permits a court to parole a minor convicted of a felony, for which the sentence imposed may be as high as ten years. The former limitation was seven years.

"TIZ" FOR SORE TIRED FEET--AH

"TIZ" is grand for aching, swollen, sweaty, calloused feet or corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, bad-smelling, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, calouses, bunions.

No mater what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ." "TIZ" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "TIZ" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, calouses or bunions.

Get a 25 cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "TIZ." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.

DISEASE MORE FATAL THAN ALL GUN-FIRE

Despite Modern Medical Treatment Eight Per Cent of Soldiers Killed by Disease In War.

(Correspondence Associated Press).

London, Feb. 11.—Notwithstanding modern medical science, eighty per cent of the deaths in the present war are due to disease as against twenty due to gun-fire. These are the figures compiled by Dr. F. N. Sandwith, writing in the current issue of "The Hospital." This same proportion obtained during the Russo-Turkish War of 1877-78. During the American Civil War there were three deaths to diseases to every one from wounds, that is to say, a mortality due to disease of sixty-six and two-thirds per cent.

During the French expedition in Madagascar in 1895, according to the writer, only twenty-nine deaths occurred in action as against seven thousand who died by disease. In the United States Army during the war with Spain fourteen died of disease to every one killed in action, although the war lasted a little more than six weeks. In the Boer war the losses from disease were enormous, notwithstanding the improvements in military hygiene then in force.

The Japanese, however, during the war with Russia, were able by exercising the most scrupulous care to reverse the ratio. In the case of their troops only one man died of disease to every four who died of wounds.
